C'est un rendez-vous à ne pas manquer. Depuis 19 ans, le prestigieux Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève célèbre un artisanat vieux de plusieurs siècles : l'horlogerie.

Bien que les compétences des horlogers aient évolué et se soient consolidées depuis, une constante demeure pour ces artisans du temps : le même dévouement attaché à la forme, au design et à l'artisanat après souvent des milliers d'heures de travail minutieux.

For 19 years, the prestigious Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) has celebrated a centuries-old master craft: watchmaking.

While the skills of watchmakers have evolved and consolidated over that time, the same dedication to form, design and craftsmanship through often thousands of hours of painstaking work has remained a constant for these artisans throughout history.

First founded in 2001, the annual GPHG awards, dubbed the industry's 'Oscars', give a platform to the intricate art of watchmaking and reward the contemporary creativity and innovation of horologists from around the world.

This year's event was no exception. Here's what you need to know ahead of this year's awards ceremony in Switzerland.

The ceremony

The socially-distanced event went ahead as planned in Geneva on Thursday, November 12, 2020, with just the winners present so as to minimise the risk of spreading the coronavirus. Balloons took up places in the auditorium of Geneva's Théâtre du Léman where other nominees and guests would normally have sat.

The ceremony itself was live-streamed and can be watched back if you missed it in the media player above.

Not only tempered slightly by the ongoing pandemic, the event also took a different form this year with the creation of an expanded jury to adjudicate the winners of the annual awards. Instead of the usual 20 to 30 judges, there is now an academy of some 350 industry experts, as of this year, involved in the selection and judging of hundreds of timepieces launched and marketed over the course of the year. For the first time, too, the academy could also nominate entries as opposed to watch brands submitting them.

Time to change: How the coronavirus pandemic altered the watchmaking industry

As 2020 dawned, there were few who could have predicted what the year had in store. The sense of hope and optimism that a new year brings was swiftly dashed by COVID-19 as it gripped the world, tragically leaving over one million people dead and many millions of jobs in paralysis.

Coronavirus has necessitated unprecedented change in many industries, not least the watchmaking industry. In order to survive, like many others, it has been forced to adapt in the face of the prevailing ill winds brought about by the pandemic or succumb completely. The winds, however, have battered some harder than others.

A l'heure où l'activisme climatique est de plus en plus présent et le développement durable devient un mot d'ordre central pour de nombreux consommateurs qui cherchent à changer leurs habitudes et à éviter une catastrophe climatique, comment le secteur de l'horlogerie évolue-t-il ?

"Même si nous ne pouvons pas changer le monde — en tant que marque de luxe, nous sommes trop petits — les gens attendent de nous que nous adoptions un comportement responsable dans tout ce que nous faisons", a déclaré Georges Kern, PDG de Breitling, à Euronews lors du Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève, une cérémonie annuelle de remise de prix qui récompense les meilleurs horlogers.

En 2020, Passion Horlogère est partie prenante du Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève. Thierry Gasquez, fondateur du site internet, est membre de l'Académie du Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève. Et à ce titre il a participé à la présélection des montres en compétition, et il a voté pour le tableau final.

En cette année particulière, le Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève a été contraint de s'adapter. Les montres sélectionnées n'ont pas pu accomplir leur tour du monde habituel, et la composition du jury n'a pas pu être aussi internationale qu'habituellement. L'édition 2020 sera donc placée sous le signe de « l'Helvétie ». Ce qui n'ôte nullement quelque intérêt à cette édition.

Hier soir avait lieu la 20e édition du Grand Prix d'horlogerie de Genève. Sur les 84 finalistes, Piaget remporte l'Aiguille d'or avec son Altiplano Ultimate Concept.

L'antre du théâtre du Léman sonnait bien creux hier soir pour le 20e opus du Grand Prix d'horlogerie de Genève (GPHG). Covid-19 oblige, la salle genevoise fut privée de ses 1 200 spectateurs habituels qui ont pu suivre – comme il est de rigueur dans ce « monde d'après » – cette édition 2020 derrière leurs écrans. Comme à son habitude, le rendez-vous réunissait le Graal de « l'art de la mesure du temps ». La cérémonie, emmenée par le comédien Édouard Baer, a consacré dix-neuf récompenses pour 84 montres réparties en 14 catégories. L'Aiguille d'or, le prix le plus prestigieux de l'année, a été attribuée à Piaget – qui aspirait à la récompense

Terre du luxe horloger, la Suisse porte en elle la culture de son savoir-faire singulier. A Genève, les expériences et sites touristiques liés à l'univers horloger sont aussi nombreux qu'envoûtants. Un séjour tout entier mérite bien d'y être consacré...

Si aujourd'hui voyager reste compliqué, rien ne nous empêche de rêver ! Et pour nos prochains séjours, nul doute que la charismatique Genève saura nous combler. A l'heure où l'on repense son rapport au temps et sa manière de voyager, une immersion dans le berceau de l'horlogerie ne saurait mieux tomber. Aussi instructif que passionnant, ce séjour dans la cité de Calvin ravira novices et passionnés du douzième art, en référence aux douze chiffres qui composent le cadran des montres. Visites de manufactures, expériences horlogères, ateliers... les influences multi-centenaires parsèment la ville pour le plus grand plaisir des visiteurs.

Terre du luxe horloger

La renommée de Genève dans l'univers horloger, ne date en effet pas d'hier. Sa position stratégique au cœur de l'Europe a vite contribué à en faire le centre névralgique du commerce international. Mais c'est en 1541, avec l'arrivée de Jean

La publication d'un bel ouvrage aux éditions Thames & Hudson sur la J12 invite à se pencher sur le destin de la première icône horlogère du XXIe siècle.

À quoi reconnaît-on un produit culte ? Difficile à dire. Pourtant, le 13 juin 2000, à l'aube du lancement de la J12 de Chanel, dont il ignore encore la fortune, l'expert du quotidien suisse Le Temps est formel : « C'est une nouveauté stratégique à plusieurs égards. Cette montre ronde est une première pour la marque. Par son caractère résolument sportif tout d'abord : Chanel, depuis ses débuts dans l'horlogerie en 1987, s'était jusque-là cantonnée à la pièce de forme façon "lifestyle" destinée à une clientèle exclusivement féminine. [...] La J12 tape, ensuite, dans le registre des nouveaux matériaux, allie boîtier en céramique noire et bracelets en céramique ou caoutchouc, et s'ouvre à la mécanique automatique. Le virage que la marque imprime à son image horlogère est patent, au moment où la compétition se fait plus rude sur le terrain du produit mode/luxe », décrypte le journaliste. Il a raison. Au grand dam d'un microcosme horloger conservateur qui se gausse à l'évocation de la possible concurrence de ces marques de mode fraîchement converties aux joies de l'horlogerie – une icône est née.

Créée en 2005 par Vacheron Constantin, la Tour de l'île, qui comprenait un nombre record de complications pour l'époque, est dispersée le 24 janvier chez Antiquorum.

Comme tous les ans en début d'année, la maison de ventes Antiquorum orchestre sa vente prestige de haute horlogerie sur le Rocher. Parmi les lots phares de la vacation – une Rolex Daytona Paul Newman, une rare GMT-Master au cadran dit « tropical », une F.P.Journe Octa Jour/Nuit ou une Audemars Piguet Royal Oak Jumbo en or jaune –, l'opérateur de ventes dévoilera sous le marteau la Tour de l'île. Un modèle pensé par la firme à la croix de Malte en 2005 en référence à l'emplacement des premiers ateliers de la marque à Genève, dans le quartier de Saint-Gervais. Un modèle hors norme que Vacheron Constantin proposa afin de célébrer ses 250 ans d'activité ininterrompue et qui reçut l'année de sa création la plus haute récompense du Grand Prix d'horlogerie de Genève, l'Aiguille d'or. À l'époque, la Tour de l'île était la montre-bracelet la plus compliquée au monde et fut produite à seulement sept exemplaires, la huitième étant réservée à la collection privée de la maison. La montre dispersée le 24 janvier fut d'ailleurs vendue chez Antiquorum en 2005 pour un montant de 1,73 million d'euros. Demain, elle apparaîtra pour la seconde fois sur le marché sous le marteau de la maison d'enchères genevoise et pourrait être adjugée entre 2 et 3 millions d'euros. Affaire à

Breaking News – The Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept Wins the "Aiguille d'Or" at GPHG 2020 (and all the other prizewinners)

Donnerstag, 12. November 2020

Despite the challenges the industry had to face this year, it needed a celebration and some joy. So here we are, as the 2020 edition of the GPHG, known as the "Oscars of the watchmaking industry", has come to a close and the prize for the best watch of the year, also known as the "Aiguille d'Or", has been awarded. As often with the Grand Prix, the focus has been on creativity, innovation and high-end watchmaking. It is, without much surprise, that we can announce to you that the best watch of 2020 is the Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept, the world's thinnest mechanical watch ever made (at 2mm). A well-deserved prize, if you ask us, considering the impressive technical achievement.

GPHG 2020 – Quick Take

For multiple years, the Grand Prix tends to reward ultra-complex watches that celebrate haute horlogerie and innovative watchmaking. The GPHG 2020 is no exception to the rule, as this year, one of the most impressive technical achievements of the last decade has been rewarded with the Aiguille d'Or. As often too, independent watchmaking is at centre stage, with brands like Bovet, Voutilainen, Greubel Forsey, H. Moser & Cie. and even some of the most promising newcomers Petermann Bédat, all coming home tonight with a "golden hand" prize.

One of the nice surprises of GPHG 2020 was the Endeavour Cylindrical Tourbillon H. Moser X MB&F as the winner of the Audacity Prize. Even now, a day later I am still thrilled about this result. Because H. Moser X MB&F Endeavour Cylindrical Tourbillon and MB&F X Moser LM101 are two pieces of the greatest horological collaboration ever. And as much as I love both watches, only the H. Moser & Cie wristwatch won.

GPHG: svelati i nomi dei membri della nuova Accademia

di Valentina Ronchi

È stata istituita l'Accademia della professione annunciata dal Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève alla fine del 2019. Sostenuta dalla città e dal Cantone di Ginevra, conta 350 iscritti per il suo primo anno di vita: a loro va il compito di presiedere alle varie fasi della selezione dei modelli in concorso e contribuire alla promozione mondiale dell'arte orologiera. La loro prima missione, che avrà inizio il prossimo maggio, sarà quella di proporre i modelli di orologi da eleggere. Successivamente, saranno invitati a partecipare durante l'estate al primo turno di votazione per selezionare gli orologi nominati; in autunno prenderanno parte a un secondo e ultimo voto per determinare la lista dei candidati 2020. Utilizzeranno una piattaforma digitale certificata, progettata appositamente, grazie alla quale potranno preservare l'anonimato e la riservatezza dei risultati. La cerimonia di consegna dei premi è in programma per il 12 novembre prossimo. L'elenco completo dei membri dell'Accademia è disponibile a questo link. A partire dal 2021, l'Accademia sarà aperta ai nuovi membri in base al principio della sponsorizzazione (secondo quanto specificato nel suo regolamento).

Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Geneve 2020: the 84 nominated timepieces

0 Time and Watches Wednesday, 16 September 2020

The 20th edition of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) - a competition created to yearly reward the most remarkable contemporary creations and promote the watchmaking art worldwide - will be held this year on November 12th, 2020.

The Foundation of the GPHG has now published the list of the 84 pre-selected watches in the running to win one of the available prizes, including the prestigious "Aiguille d'Or" Grand Prix, that will reward contemporary watchmaking excellence.

Only watches commercialised after May 2019 and at the latest by the end of December 2020 are eligible to take part.

Last year the winner of the "Aiguille d'Or" was the Audemars Piguet Royal Oak Selfwinding Perpetual Calendar Ultra-Thin Ref. 26586IP. We wrote about it and the winners of the other prizes of the 2019 Edition of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Geneve here

Per il terzo articolo sugli orologi selezionati per il GPHG 2020, facciamo una pausa fra le complicazioni per tornare con i piedi per terra. La sezione Challenge comprende orologi venduti a meno di 4000 CHF e per quelli della Petite Aiguille, prezzo al pubblico fra 4000 e 10.000 CHF.

For our third article on G.P.H.G. we are writing about watches sold at less 4.000 CHF (Challenge) and between 4.000 and 10.000 CHF (Petite Aiguille) an affordable amount for many people according prices of others selected watches.

Al di là delle prodezze tecniche e dell'estetica, legata sempre più spesso ai colori dei quadranti, oltre al fenomeno Swatch, perfetto per chi vuole un orologio anche automatico a un ottimo prezzo, c'è da dire che si possono acquistare modelli interessanti senza dover accendere un mutuo. Certamente tre o quattromila Franchi sono sempre una spesa che non tutti possono decidere a cuor leggero (molti rivenditori però consentono acquisti a rate) e si tratta pur sempre di orologi di una determinata classe e, spesso realizzati da famosi Marchi storici.

Quarto articolo sul GPGH 2020 e ci scusiamo se nel titolo abbiamo citato tre sezioni omettendo le virgole e invertendo le posizioni, ma il format non lo consente (che rimpianto per i vecchi sistemi che consentivano di stringere leggermente gli spazi).

GPHG fourth article with unbelievable watches inside Mechanique d'Exception and Chronometrie, less easy to understand the chosen title for Homme complication, anyway if you like watches enjoy yourself.

Non abbiamo compreso il titolo della sezione complicati maschili, termine un po' vago visto gli orologi che vi sono compresi, MB&F ha iscritto il suo Bulldog, opera d'arte moderna. Cronometria: pensiamo sia una delle complicazioni più "difficili", dai sistemi di risonanza ad altro, bello ritrovarvi vecchie conoscenze, come Bernard Lederer che, nel 2002 con la sua Marca Blu, produceva tourbillon eccezionali e che oggi si dedica a scappamenti speciali, omaggio ai grandi Maestri del passato. Infine per "meccanici d'eccezione" c'è di che restare a bocca aperta, sono veri capolavori, alcuni uniscono complicazioni in prima assoluta altri vedono per la prima volta lavorare insieme, da Mosesr per MB&F, Maestri come E.Courday e K.Voutilainen, mentre Piaget con il movimento integrato in una cassa in lega di cobalto la propone con spessore di soli 2mm.

SPAZIO agli INDIPENDENTI

MANCA POCO MENO DI UN MESE ALLA PROCLAMAZIONE DEI VINCITORI DEL GRAND PRIX D'HORLOGERIE DI GINEVRA, CHE SARANNO ANNUNCIATI IL 12 NOVEMBRE DURANTE LA TRADIZIONALE SERATA DI PREMIAZIONE, FORSE QUEST'ANNO UN PO' DIVERSA DAL SOLITO...

di Dody Giussani

Un'edizione particolare del GPHG questa del 2020. Decisamente inferiore al solito la partecipazione di grandi marche, facile conseguenza di un anno con poche novità a causa della cancellazione dei saloni orologieri. Nonostante ciò, non mancano orologi interessanti e originali, anche grazie ai tanti indipendenti ammessi in competizione, che approfittano del Grand Prix per godere di una vetrina internazionale.

Altro fattore che può aver inciso sulla diversa composizione dei partecipanti è che quest'anno il concorso ha cambiato formula. Una rivoluzione iniziata con la costituzione di una Academy, formata da ben 350 professionisti del settore provenienti da tutti gli ambiti, dal giornalismo all'industria, e chiamati a proporre e selezionare gli orologi partecipanti.

Il lungo processo che sta portando all'elezione dei 18 vincitori ha preso il via nei giorni tra il 25 maggio e il 5 giugno. In quelle date i membri della Academy hanno proposto gli orologi che a loro giudizio erano meritevoli di partecipare al Grand Prix. Le proposte sono poi state sottoposte alle marche interessate, che hanno potuto decidere se accettare la sfida oppure no. Perché, è importante sottolinearlo, quella della Academy è un'attività puramente propositiva. Le Case orologiere chiamate in gioco possono benissimo rifiutarsi di entrare in gara. Ma tutte le marche, segnalate o no, sono libere di presentare la candidatura per i propri modelli.

Dal 24 giugno al 31 luglio sono quindi state accolte le libere iscrizioni al GPHG. Il 26 agosto scorso la Academy è stata di nuovo chiamata in causa per selezionare, fra i numerosissimi orologi iscritti, gli 84 ufficialmente in gara. Dieci giorni, fino al 6 settembre, è stato il tempo concesso per effettuare la scelta dei candidati per ognuna delle categorie: Orologio femminile, Complicato da donna, Orologio maschile, Complicato da uomo, Orologio iconico, Cronometria (orologi meccanici con tourbillon o scappamento speciale per migliorarne la precisione), Calendario e Astronomico, Eccezione meccanica, Cronografo, Subacqueo, Orologio gioiello, Artigianato artistico, Petite Aiguille (orologi con un prezzo compreso fra 4.000 e 10.000 franchi svizzeri), Challenge (orologio di prezzo inferiore a 4.000 euro). Nelle ultime due categorie sono ammessi in gara anche gli smartwatch.

Su queste pagine, alcuni fra i più interessanti modelli in gara quest'anno al Grand Prix d'Horlogerie di Ginevra, tutti realizzati da orologiai indipendenti. Behrens Original, marca creata da appassionati di Hong Kong, Cina e Germania, presenta Apolar, orologio con indicazione tridimensionale delle fasi lunari, che riproduce sul quadrante il moto della Luna attorno alla Terra. Il modulo è sviluppato sulla base di un calibro ETA 2824 (foto 1 e 2).

I coniugi Habring, titolari dell'omonima azienda austriaca, tornano al GPHG con una variante del loro Chrono Felix, cronografo monopulsante a carica manuale con movimento calibro A11C-H1 progettato e prodotto dalla Habring2 (foto 3).

Il Louis Moinet Memoris Superlight è un cronografo in cui l'intero meccanismo cronografico è stato estrapolato dal movimento automatico e posizionato a vista sul quadrante per poterne osservare il funzionamento quando lo si aziona (foto 4).

Armin Strom, la firma oggi guidata da Serge Michel e Claude Greisler, partecipa al GPHG con il Minute Repeater Resonance, orologio sviluppato sulla base del calibro proprietario con regolatore a risonanza (che utilizza un collegamento elastico fra i pitoni delle molle a spirale di due bilancieri), in collaborazione con Le Cercle des Horlogers, che ha progettato il meccanismo indipendente di ripetizione minuti (foto 5).

Goël Petermann and Florian Bédat, diplomati alla scuola di orologeria di Glashütte, realizzano il loro primo movimento nel 2017 in collaborazione con Dominique Renaud: un impeccabile tre sfere da 18.000 alternanze/ora con un elegante meccanismo dei secondi morti a doppia ancora, in gara al GPHG (foto 6).

Andersen Genève festeggia 40 anni di attività di Svend Andersen con un pezzo che ripropone una complicazione iconica dell'orologiaio danese, fra i primi membri della AHCI. Il Jumping Hours 40th Anniversary visualizza l'ora saltante al dodici e i minuti al 6 in un quadrante in oro a 21 carati, guilloché a mano su tre diverse macchine per raggiungere il massimo livello di dettaglio (foto 7).

Il venticinquenne Theo Auffret partecipa al GPHG con l'affascinante Tourbillon à Paris, orologio realizzato unicamente con metodi artigianali. Tutto in questo pezzo, dal grande bilanciere a viti, oscillante a 21.600 alternanze/ora, alla gabbia del tourbillon con evidenti contrappesi cilindrici per l'equilibratura, parla di amore per la tradizione (foto 8).

Santiago Martinez, Moebius Rassmman, Eduard Mercadé e Montse Cimeno sono il team di Atelier de Chronométrie Barcelona. Con questa firma realizzano artigianalmente pezzi speciali su ordinazione. #8 Split-Seconds Chronograph nasce proprio dalla richiesta di un collezionista. Il movimento, rifinito a regola d'arte, è sviluppato sulla base di un calibro vintage Venus 185, in parte restaurato e in parte ricostruito (foto 9 e 10).

Omaggio alla storia della tecnica orologiera è Eccentricity, il modello presentato in gara da Cyril Brivet-Naudot, altro giovane talento. L'orologio è equipaggiato da uno "scappamento libero eccentrico" sviluppato a partire dal 2015 insieme a Luc Monnet, nell'ambito di un progetto open source (uno dei pochi in orologeria), con lo scopo di migliorare e realizzare il sistema di scappamento libero progettato nel 1867 dall'orologiaio Louis Richard. Interessante anche l'indicazione ipocicloidale di ore e minuti (foto 11).

Anche Bernhard Lederer, classe 1958, ha dedicato tempo e mestiere allo studio dei sistemi di scappamento. Con il Central Impulse è riuscito nella difficile impresa di realizzare uno scappamento naturale (progettato per primo da Abraham-Louis Breguet) dotato di due meccanismi a forza costante da 10 secondi, come elaborato da John Harrison nel 1756 e sviluppato in seguito anche da George Daniels: un compendio di storia dell'orologeria (foto 12).

TUTTI I PROCESSI DESCRITTI SOPRA SI SONO SVOLTI TRAMITE PIATTAFORMA DIGITALE, su cui si potevano trovare sia le foto che la presentazione di brand e modelli, oltre alle caratteristiche tecniche di ogni orologio.

E siamo arrivati a oggi, ormai in dirittura di arrivo, con la cerimonia di premiazione fissata per il 12 novembre, quando saranno finalmente rivelati i vincitori.

Chi decide quali orologi vinceranno? Qui c'è la novità della novità. Fino al 2019 quello di eleggere i vincitori era compito esclusivo di una giuria di esperti, parzialmente rinnovata ogni anno ma con molti membri fissi. La composizione della giuria era comunicata già all'inizio di tutto il processo di selezione degli orologi e solo i 30 membri della giuria erano responsabili sia della preselezione che dell'elezione dei vincitori.

Quest'anno, al 3 ottobre la composizione della giuria ancora non è stata comunicata, ma si sa che sarà composta da 30 membri della Academy stessa e che si riunirà a Ginevra, come sempre a porte chiuse e al cospetto di un notaio, pochi giorni prima della premiazione.

Intanto, gli 84 orologi candidati al premio sono già in tour, con una serie di mostre che quest'anno non usciranno dai confini della Svizzera. Dal 15 ottobre è possibile vedere dal vivo i modelli in gara a La Chaux-de-Fonds (fino al 18 ottobre), poi sarà la volta di Zurigo, Berna e infine di Ginevra, dal 31 ottobre al 15 novembre. GPHG '20 Piaget Aiguille d'or

13 Novembre Mondovision nessun commento

Ieri in un teatro Leman tristemente deserto per la pandemia, si è svolta la cerimonia del GPHG 2020 con la consegna dei premi in presenza o, come si dice, in remoto. Questo GPHG svoltosi online per quasi due ore, potrebbe anche essere classificato come il GPHG dei Premi Doppi.

Her er klokkene som skal kjempe om årets priser.

Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève er utvilsomt et av de mest prestisjetunge prisutdelingen på klokkekalenderen, og arrangementet omtales ofte som klokkeindustriens Oscar-utdeling.

Årets vinnere av GPHG vil kunngjøres den 12. november – men grunnet korona-situasjonen er det foreløpig uvisst nøyaktig hvordan. Sannsynligheten for en gallakledd skare i Théâtre du Léman i Genève er nok heller lav. Likevel skal de 18 prisene få sine mottakere, fordelt på 14 kategorier og ekstrapriser inkludert den gjeve hovedprisen Aiguille d'Or.

I morges ble de 84 nominerte klokkene presentert på gphg.org. Tradisjonen tro består årets nominerte av et bredt utvalg klokker – og noen kategorier er nok mer spennende for det norske markedet enn andre. Spesielt interessante er kanskje de nominerte til «Petite Aiguille» (klokker fra 4.000 til 10.000 sveitsiske franc), som i år inkluderer Sarpaneva x Moomin, nye IWC Portugieser Automatic 40 og Habring2 Chrono Felix.

2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève

GPHG 2020. Rettigheter: GPHG

Forrige uke hadde vi gleden av å bevitne et særdeles flott arrangement. Vi snakker selvfølgelig om årets utgave av Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genéve (GPHG) – klokkeindustriens svar på Oscar-utdelingen.

Der vi vanligvis ville sett en fullsatt sal med representanter fra både små og store klokkeprodusenter, måtte vi i år nøye oss med seterader fylt opp med ballonger i stedet for mennesker, hvor det meste foregikk digitalt.

Lista nominowanych, edycja 2020.

Tegoroczny plebiscyt Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève, a szczególnie jego finałowa impreza mogłaby zostać ochrzczona jako "Survivor Gala". Bieżący rok nie zna litości.

Ogłoszono listy finalistów poszczególnych edycji konkursu. Jak zawsze pozostaje pewna przestrzeń do dyskusji czy to faktycznie są najlepsze, najbardziej reprezentatywne i skomplikowane zegarki zaprezentowane w okresie obejmowanym przez konkurs. Wiadomo, że "Internet" wie najlepiej..

W tym roku wygląda to następująco, czy ciekawie to pozostawiam do indywidualnych ocen.

Choć minionego, 2020 roku nie będziemy wspominać z dużą nostalgią, to miało w nim miejsce kilka ważnych wydarzeń, także w świecie zegarków. Przełom roku to naturalny okres podsumowań. Dotyczy to również świata najznamienitszych zegarków i zegarmistrzostwa.

W listopadzie ubiegłego roku przyznane zostały nagrody w corocznym Grand Prix d'Horloderie de Geneve 2020. Z powodu globalnej pandemii uroczysta gala miała charakter konferencji cyfrowej, którą poprowadził francuski aktor teatralny i filmowy - Edouard Baer.

ATUALIDADES | GPHG 2020: os vencedores

por Espiral do Tempo

Foi ontem, dia 12 de novembro, que foram anunciados os vencedores do Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève 2020. O Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept levou para casa o galardão mais desejado: o Aiguille d'Or. Mas foram muitas as surpresas da cerimónia que este ano decorreu sem a presença do público, tendo em conta as restrições associadas à pandemia. Aqui fica a listagem dos distinguidos nas diferentes categorias.

Foram ontem anunciados os vencedores da edição de 2020 do Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève, numa cerimónia apresentada por Edouard Baer e que a Espiral do Tempo transmitiu em direto — sendo que ainda pode ainda ser recordada aqui no nosso site.

Mais uma vez, este ano foi demonstrada a vitalidade e excelência da relojoaria, bem como um lado de reconhecimento entre pares possível de constatar através de alguns dos discursos proferidos na entrega dos galardões.

O júri teve em mãos a responsabilidade de atribuir prémios nas 14 categorias anunciadas previamente e mais cinco prémios à parte, mas o grande vencedor da noite acabou por ser o Altiplano Ultimate Concept da Piaget que levou para casa a distinção máxima: o troféu Aiguille d'Or.

Com 2mm de altura (incluindo caixa e vidro de safira), o Altiplano Ultimate Concept é atualmente o mais fino relógio mecânico existente no mercado e foi desenvolvido inteiramente in-house, num projeto que durou seis anos até à sua concretização. Este relógio serviu de palco para diversas inovações

Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève: las luces y sombras de los Oscar de los relojes o por qué algunas marcas no quieren participar

por Elko Tilla
12 de noviembre de 2020

El Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève es la ceremonia más ilustre donde se premian los mejores relojes del año. Pero como todo, tiene sus luces y sombras que llaman la atención.

Los premios más ilustres de la relojería mundial, los Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG), que se entregan este 12 de noviembre en Ginebra (Suiza), no están exentos de luces y sombras. Nada ni nadie lo está (ni siquiera la Madre Teresa de Calcuta, a la que se acusó de ser amiga de dictadores), así que ésta no iba a ser la excepción.

Antes de exponer las dudas que generan, comencemos explicando qué son. Los organiza una fundación creada en 2001 bajo las mencionadas siglas GPHG. Está reconocida como una entidad de interés público desde 2011 y la supervisan el Cantón de Ginebra y la Ciudad de Ginebra. Su principal objetivo es premiar cada año las creaciones relojeras comercializadas durante ese ejercicio que considera más notables y promover así la relojería.

GPHG klart: Ballongfyllt jubileum i coronaanpassat Genève

Text: Britta Rossander

Akademin för GPHG delade igår kväll ut 19 priser på Théâtre du Léman inför en salong fylld med ballonger (en del med ögon) istället för branschfolk. Det var såklart trist att behöva sitta framför datorn och titta på när vinnarna tog emot priser och rev av sig munskydden (med GPHG-logga) när de skulle hålla tacktal. Hel överraskningsmomentet var borta eftersom det bara var vinnande varumärkes representanter i salongen. Inga spontana applåder, ingen som ställde sig upp och jublade... lite svårt för en ballong. Det måste ha känts andefattigt för organisationen nu när det till och med var 20-årsjubileum.

De H. Moser & Cie. Streamliner Flyback Chronograph Automatic is een luxueuze sportchronograaf die begeert oproept. En een prijs in de wacht sleepte tijdens de GPHG. En een aerodynamische prijswinnaar in funky blauw is nieuw in de collectie van het kleine horlogehuis uit Schaffhausen.

Vorig jaar lanceerde H. Moser & Cie. uit Schaffhausen de Streamliner Flyback Chronograph Automatic. De ontwikkeling daarvan duurde maar liefst vijf jaar. Dat lag onder andere aan het door AGENHOR exclusief voor Moser gebouwde uurwerk. Want dat is een wondermechaniek. Maar ook wat betreft de vloeiende en geïntegreerde vormgeving ging het horlogehuis niet over één nacht ijs. En dat geïntegreerde is natuurlijk heel modieus heden ten dage. WATCHES

THE TIME OF TAKUMI

Once decried as the death knell of haute horlogerie, Japanese watchmakers are now enjoying a well-deserved moment in the sun. By Nick Foulkes

This summer the world of vintage watch auctions witnessed a true first. Normally focused on ever more specifically caveated sales records, auction-house chest-beating is a largely predictable matter. But in late August I think it is safe to say that Bonhams' watch department made history when it held what it proudly announced to be the first auction dedicated to Seiko watches. The Making Waves sale comprised more than 200 Seiko timepieces amassed by a single collector.

The pre-sale announcement bruited about the encyclopedic nature of the collection and allowed itself to indulge in some pardonable hyperbole, talking of "iconic, if not legendary, models, such as the ultra-rare Ref 5718-8000, which was tailored for the 1964 Tokyo Olympics and widely considered as the 'holy grail' of Seiko watches". To my shame, I tend to associate the term "grail watch" with such timepieces as Cartier's London Crash, Patek Philippe's 2499 or 5970, and of course the Paul Newman dial Rolex 6239... But come to think of it, why shouldn't there be a Seiko grail watch? After all, as Sharon Chan, Bonhams' Asian director of watches, who put the sale together, says: "Over recent years Japanese brands, such as Seiko, already a favourite with many Asian collectors, began to attract a huge – and loyal – international fanbase."

I am of a generation of watch enthusiasts who grew up in the prejudiced belief that Seiko, if not exactly the work of the devil himself, had certainly involved input from such deputies as Beelzebub. On Christmas day 1969 Seiko introduced the Astron, the world's first commercial quartz watch, and the first toll of what for many years sounded like the death knell of mechanical watchmaking.

Forty-five years later, I found myself a member of the Jury of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève 2014, voting enthusiastically for the Grand Seiko Hi-Beat mechanical watch to receive the Petite Aiguille prize ahead of well-known Swiss brands. My 25-year-old self would not have believed it. For Grand Seiko CEO Shinji Hattori, the 2014 prize is "the highlight" of Seiko's participation in what he calls the "Academy Awards of the watch industry" because it was rewarding not an innovative electronic timepiece but a traditional watch of the sort that Seiko had nearly rendered extinct.

Since then, Grand Seiko has been gaining credibility among European collectors to the extent that in this, the watchmaker's 60th anniversary year, the Seiko boutique in Knightsbridge was rebranded Grand Seiko, focusing attention on the detail- and finish-obsessed watchmaking that Hattori feels has much in common with fine Swiss horology.

WHY SHOULDN'T THERE BE A SEIKO "GRAIL" WATCH?

"We both pay respect to traditional craftsmanship, aim for innovation, and want the watch to remain a valued object to which consumers aspire," he says.

Country : UK
Date : 10.10.2020
Type: Newspaper

But while Grand Seiko speaks the language of haute horlogerie, it is saying something slightly different. Hattori believes the message concerns the Japanese concept of michi, the ceaseless pursuit of perfection evinced "in arenas as diverse as martial arts, the tea ceremony, flower arrangement and calligraphy".

WHETHER THAT IS FOUND IN the special polishing technique known as zaratsu, or the creation of dials with a "diamond dust finish mimicking the fine snow that dusts the slopes around Grand Seiko's Micro Artist Studio, Japanese watchmaking at this level has codes and values – not to mention a vocabulary of quality – that are different to, but as venerated as the values of its Geneva counterpart.

Or, as one collector who preferred to remain anonymous tells me: "People are bored with the same-old same-old, and they're wanting something high quality that defines them, and Grand Seiko does that."

"What distinguishes Grand Seiko from others is its Japanese uniqueness, as expressed in its philosophy 'The Nature of Time'," says Hattori. "In our watchmaking, we celebrate a Japanese spirituality of time that is deeply inspired by nature and brought to life by takumi, or Japanese craftsmanship."

His words are echoed by one of Japan's leading independent watchmakers, Hajime Asaoka, who is descended from a line of swordsmiths on his father's side and painstakingly makes his own components, prints his own dials and polishes his own cases. "For me haute horlogerie is the only measure by which to express myself. I express myself by observing the principles of nature with my five senses, and I realise what I have observed by designing and manufacturing in watchmaking."

It was once explained to me by someone clever that Japan has a highly developed sense of beauty, but no sense of ugliness. Perhaps another way of putting it is that the Japanese eye detects aesthetic interest in the trivial and the gaudy as much as the sublime and spiritual. Thus alongside the meditative beauty of this year's Grand Seiko Shizukuishi collection, the same house can bring out a watch dedicated to Porco Rosso, a manga classic about a first-world-war fighter ace who is turned into a pig and becomes an airborne bounty hunter bringing air pirates to justice that was later made into a feature-length cartoon. When I first saw this watch, it was presented among Grand Seikos costing 20 times as much and was proffered with the same amount of respect and restraint.

WHEN I SAW THE PORCO ROSSO WATCH I WENT NUTS

I was anything but restrained. I went nuts: a moustachioed pig piloting an open-cockpit seaplane, white silk scarf fluttering like a pennant... what's not to like? It struck me as a spontaneous and joyful, if unusual, subject to dedicate an otherwise very serious column-wheel chronograph to.

Seiko also works with Bathing Ape, the streetwear brand inspired both by the 1960s film Planet of the Apes and a somewhat abstruse metaphor that draws on the ritualised culture of Japanese bathing. It is hard to imagine Bathing Ape coming from any other country than Japan, but its appeal is international and, as well as partnering with Seiko, Bape is sought after as a collaboration partner by Swiss watch brands including Bell & Ross and Swatch, which announced a new series of Bape Swatch Big Bolds last summer.

Meanwhile, TAG Heuer has partnered with streetwear legend, DJ and designer Hiroshi Fujiwara. It is not the first time that the LVMH watch division has worked with Fujiwara – in 2018 LVMH's official custom partner Bamford Watch Department created a minimalist Zenith with the Tokyo designer. "It was our fastest-selling limited edition," recalls George Bamford. "Hiroshi is someone who inspires me and has taught me a hell of a lot about design, particularly in regard to paring back design."

Bamford was recently approached by Casio to collaborate on a Casio G-Shock, which launched in September in black and Bamford blue. "It is a bit left-field for Bamford Watch department, but I'm so pleased to work with them on something like this," says Bamford.

His affection for the G-Shock can be accounted for by the fact that he grew up with them, as did many of his generation. "Quite a few collectors will have had a G-Shock in their life," he says.

Who knows? Give it a few years and perhaps the Bamford G-Shock will become a grail watch, too. ■HTSI

Bovet And Piaget Win Big At GPHG

BY MARTIN GREEN | NOVEMBER 16, 2020

This year's edition of the GPHG, the Oscars of the watch world, was quite different than the years before. What is usually a phenomenal black-tie event was now heavily scaled down due to the Covid-19 pandemic. The event could be followed online by watch enthusiasts and industry insiders around the globe, who saw a few surprising, and a few not so surprising winners.

Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept; Customize The Watch That Won The GPHG

BY MARTIN GREEN | DECEMBER 10, 2020

Piaget's most complex watch is not a Grande Sonnerie or multi-axis tourbillon, but a modest time-only. No additional complications are added because the watch itself is the complication. With a thickness of just 2mm is the Altiplano Ultimate Concept, the world's thinnest mechanical watch. To achieve this, every single part of the watch had to be completely redesigned. Piaget was entering a territory where nobody has gone before, not even themselves, despite already having a solid reputation of being one of the most skilled makers of ultra-slim movements.

A "SWISSIFIED" ROADSHOW AND JURY FOR THE 2020 EDITION

13-OCTOBER-2020

GPHG

GRAND PRIX D'HORLOGERIE DE GENÈVE

Made of up more than 350 players from the main watchmaking sectors, the international Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) Academy was founded at the start of 2020. In early September, it nominated for the first time the 84 timepieces that will continue competing to win one of the 18 prizes – including the prestigious "Aiguille d'Or" Grand Prix – which will pay tribute to contemporary watchmaking excellence.

A 30-member jury from the Academy will meet in Geneva behind closed doors in early November to physically evaluate the 84 competing watches. In order to ensure the physical presence of all the jurors in the current public health circumstances, the 2020 jury is composed of Swiss and foreign personalities residing in Switzerland.

Members of the entire Academy will also take part in the second round of voting via the secure digital platform, with the result of the Academy's vote being added to that of the Jury to determine the final list of awards.

THE STREAMLINER CHRONOGRAPH FROM H. MOSER & CIE. GETS FUNKY

16-NOVEMBER-2020

Streamliner: the evocative name of the line released in 2020 by H. Moser & Cie. Overall winner of the 2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) in the Chronograph category, the Streamliner is quickly becoming the must-have model. Imbued with the fluidity of geometric curves and dynamic forms, this collection is characterised by the seamless integration of its steel bracelet with the cushion-shaped case. Steel on steel, Moser-style, of course. Which means employing minimalism to perfectly enhance the resolutely innovative aesthetic of the Streamliner models. After the success of its Chronograph Flyback Automatic with a grey fumé dial and of its three-hand watch, H. Moser & Cie. is unveiling the Streamliner Flyback Chronograph Automatic Funky Blue, featuring the now unmistakable eponymous dial.

Часовой «Оскар» собрал академию

Ежегодный конкурс Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Geneve (GPHG) называют «часовым Оскаром», а иногда — по имени главной награды Aiguille d'Or — «Золотой стрелкой». В этом году женевский приз еще на шаг приблизился к оскаровским стандартам, организовав свою академию.

Опубликован список членов Академии GPHG

Он включает 350 имен, из них пятеро - из России

С 2020 года престижный часовой конкурс Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) немного изменил формат, учредив собственную международную Академию, члены которой будут участвовать не только в голосовании, но и в самом процессе номинации часов. В первый список Академии вошли 350 специалистов из разных отраслей часового дела со всего мира.

Их работа будет состоять из нескольких этапов. В мае члены Академии получат возможность самим выдвинуть заслуживающие внимания модели на номинации GPHG. Наряду с этим, как и раньше, бренды могут предлагать на конкурс собственные изделия. Летом состоится первый тур голосования для определения финалистов, а осенью будет проведен второй тур, в котором, как и раньше, ежегодно избранное жюри определится с победителями конкурса.

Специально для работы расширенной Академии была создана онлайн-платформа, гарантирующая безопасность процесса номинации и отбора часовых моделей. Идея нововведения заключается в том, что значительно расширенный состав Академии, участвующий в конкурсе с самого начала, в отличие от традиционного камерного жюри, включающегося лишь на финальных этапах, поможет популяризировать идеи Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève и часового искусства на мировых рынках, сделать конкурс более разнообразным и объективным.

С 2021 года список членов Академии планируется регулярно дополнять новыми участниками.

В состав Академии 2020 года вошли пять участников из России: независимый часовой мастер Константин Чайкин, коммерческий директор по России и СНГ бренда IWC Евгений Пай, а также журналисты Лиза Епифанова, Алексей Кутковой и Алексей Тарханов.

Стартовал Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève 2020

С этого дня и до 31 июля для швейцарских и зарубежных часовых брендов открыт прием заявок на самый престижный мировой конкурс часового искусства. Академия GPHG, созданная в начале 2020 года и объединяющая 350 заинтересованных субъектов отрасли, для начала отобрала несколько сотен моделей и предложила соответствующим часовым брендам выставить их на конкурс, который будет проводиться в 20-й раз. Эти компании могут подтвердить участие предлагаемых часов либо выставить другие по своему выбору. Кроме того, все другие часовые бренды могут по своей инициативе выставить изделия через новую цифровую платформу.

Лауреаты премии 2020 года будут объявлены 12 ноября. Награды вручат в 20 номинациях, в том числе новой – Smart watch. С созданием Академии открывается совершенно новый процесс отбора, приема на конкурс и голосования, и GPHG, глобально развивая свою миссию в области часового дела, в этом году становится еще более важным инструментом продвижения новейших моделей. Список наград и категорий, а также условия и порядок участия подробно изложены в правилах GPHG 2020 на веб-сайте по ссылкам:

В прошлом году триумфатором стала компания Audemars Piguet, которой достались сразу 3 статуэтки GPHG. Часами года жюри единодушно признало модель Royal Oak Selfwinding Perpetual Calendar Ultra-Thin – ультратонкий вечный календарь из платины и титана с идеальной компоновкой счетчиков на циферблате синего цвета. При толщине корпуса 6,3 мм механизм часов имеет рекордно малые 2,89 мм.

Два приза, «Лучший хронограф» и «Лучшие ювелирные часы», были присуждены моделям Bvlgari - автоматическому хронографу Octo Finissimo Chronograph GMT Automatic и Serpenti Misteriosi Romani, которые стали самой дорогой моделью за всю историю существования бренда (2 млн. евро). Голову змеи на часах украшает 10-каратный сапфир, а бриллианты багетной огранки на браслете выложены в виде змеиных чешуек, которые отделены друг от друга рядами синих сапфиров. В престижной категории «Лучшие женские часы» третий год подряд награда досталась Chanel, обновившей культовую модель J12.

Эксперт «Ювелирного обозрения» Екатерина Хельвиг-Форнелл назвала абсолютно выдающейся моделью 2019 года победителя в категории «Лучшие женские часы со сложной функцией» - Legacy Machine FlyingT марки MB&F. Изюминка часов, представленных в 38-мм корпусе из белого золота – центральный парящий турбийон под куполообразным стеклом в сочетании с оригинальной индикацией времени. Эксперт также отметила тогда общую гонку по «истончению» часов, которая идет уже несколько лет: «Можно сказать, мы находимся в моменте времени, когда меньше значит больше». Репортаж о GPHG 2019 см. по ссылке https://ru.calameo.com/read/0054223429d0cd82aa2ae

Шорт-лист из 84 часов, которые примут участие в финале конкурса, определила Академия фонда, созданная в начале 2020 года и объединившая более 350 ключевых игроков из основных секторов международной часовой индустрии. Члены Академии провели первый тур голосования с помощью специальной цифровой платформы, специально разработанной для сохранения анонимности информации и конфиденциальности результатов. Номинированные часы, разделенные на 14 категорий, продолжат соревнование, чтобы выиграть один из 18 призов, включая престижный Гран-при «Золотая стрелка».

Вскоре будет сформировано жюри из 30 членов, которое соберется в Женеве за закрытыми дверями. В ходе этого заседания они в присутствии нотариуса лично оценят каждый из «лотов» и тайным голосованием выберут лучших. Все члены Академии также примут участие в финальном голосовании через специальную цифровую платформу. Имена победителей будут объявлены 12 ноября 2020 года на 20-й церемонии вручения премии GPHG Awards - проекта, который уже два десятилетия играет стратегическую роль в продвижении новых моделей и в развитии часового сектора в целом. В октябре будет представлена обновленная информация об организации церемонии награждения в соответствии с действующими мерами санитарной безопасности.

Чудеса без «Чудес»

К зиме часовое дело снова начало погружаться в глубокую заморозку. Летом кризис немного оттаял, и в августе часовщики смогли встретиться на Geneva Watch Days. Единственный швейцарский часовой салон в этом году состоялся благодаря быстроте и храбрости нескольких марок. Честь им за это и хвала. Другие же достойно ждали нового женевского часового салона Watches and Wonders, он же «Часы и чудеса» в апреле 2021 года. И дождались до того, что салон опять самопроизвольно отменился. Кажется, при входе в Palexpo пора устанавливать грабли. Зато организаторы обещают, что в 2022 году салон станет самым большим из когда-либо проводившихся в Женеве. А если не в 2022-м, то уж лет через пять точно. Думаю, пока Базель и Женева лежат в отключке, мы снова увидим художественную самодеятельность Geneva Watch Days — и слава богу.

Пока же многие славные и могучие марки как будто бы впали в спячку. Их не видно и не слышно, хотя они где-то работают и даже дают о себе знать пресс-релизами. Но вся прежняя гениальная система — цепь событий, продвигающих часы, исчезла. Часы лишились историй, которые к ним прилагались. Попрятались люди, которые их делали и носили. А кому нужны часы без историй, без человеческих лиц? Нам говорили, что часы выживут, потому что они рождают эмоции. Что же, тоска тоже эмоция.

ТОЧНОСТЬ И ТОНКОСТЬ
ЛУЧШИЕ ЧАСЫ 2020 ГОДА

20-я церемония вручения часового «Оскара» в Женеве, Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Geneve (GPHG), вышла очень и очень странной. До последних недель перед заседанием жюри и оглашением победителей организатор конкурса фонд GPHG надеялся, что церемонию удастся провести как обычно. И даже более торжественно, потому что в этот раз женевский приз вручался в двадцатый раз. Но в конце октября Швейцария закрылась на карантин. В большом театральном зале, согласно новым правилам, можно было собрать не более пятидесяти человек. То есть тридцать членов жюри, девятнадцать победителей и одного ведущего.

Тем не менее обычный антураж был сохранен. Как и в прошлом году, церемонию в женевском театре Леман вел француз Эдуар Бер, хотя шутил он реже и грустнее, а в важные моменты просил звукооператоров «приблизить аплодисменты». Члены жюри выходили с конвертами, стараясь не дышать друг на друга из-под масок, а награжденные не цеплялись за трибуну, как это бывало раньше, укладываясь в отведенные им три минуты. Правда, четверо из них получили двойную порцию внимания. Голосование вселенную всем хорошо, но уже не первый год приводит к тому, что премии в разных номинациях получают одни и те же марки.

Дважды была награждена Breitling — и весьма почетной «Маленькой стрелке» и в категории часов для ныряльщиков. Сначала — за Superocean Heritage 57 Limited Edition II Rainbow, затем — за Superocean Auto 48 ETQ Edition. Глава марки Жорж Керн получил возможность поблагодарить пустой зал на французском, а потом и на английском. Он пообещал ведущему, что, если понадобится, в третий раз выйдет с немецким спичем, но прошлогодний рекорд — три приза, которые достались Audemars Piguet — так и не был побит.

Дважды поднимался на сцену владелец марки Bovet 1822 Паскаль Раффи. Он получил премию за лучшие женские часы Miss Audrey и весьма престижную награду «Исключительная механика» за лучшие сложные часы Recital 26 Brainstorm Chapter Two. Его мануфактура в замке Мотье над Невшателем выпускает сейчас около 800 часов в год. Это скорее коллекционный завод, существующий в основном для удовольствия владельца, что и помогает часовщикам Раффи разрабатывать из ряда вон выходящие механизмы, за которые не взялись бы большие марки. Ему не раз приходилось получать в Женеве призы, в том числе и «Золотую стрелку», так что Bovet 1822 уже вошла в число национальных швейцарских сокровищ.

__Радость Жан-Кристофа Бабена из Bvlgari видна даже под маской

Новостью стал успех другой маленькой и очень задиристой марки — H. Moser & Cie. Ее молодой директор Эдуар Мейлан принял из рук жюри две премии. Первую собственную — за хронограф Streamliner Flyback Automatic. Вторую, «За храбрость», ему пришлось разделить с такой же независимой маркой MB&F за совместно разработанный Endeavour Cylindrical Tourbillon H. Moser X MB&F.

Дважды отмечены на юбилейном конкурсе именитые французские ювелиры Van Cleef & Arpels. С тех пор как два года назад они перестали участвовать в швейцарских часовых салонах, GPHG остался единственным местом, где мастера с Вандомской площади встречаются со своими швейцарскими коллегами. Двойной успех на главном часовом конкурсе мира (за лучшие ювекирные часы Frivole Secrete и за лучшие художественные Lady Arpels Soleil Feerique) говорит как о никуда не исчезнувшем мастерстве, так и о правильном наборе номинаций, в которых Van Cleef & Arpels традиционно сильны.

Премией в категории «Часы-легенда» награждены Bvlgari Aluminium. Это и впрямь очень удачное возвращение часов, которые надевали пума в 1998-м, когда марка позволила себе невиданное сочетание «низких» материалов — алюминия и каучука в графичном черно-белом дизайне. Новые Bvlgari Aluminium Chronograph имеют большой размер, более совершенные материалы корпуса и мануфактурный механизм, но сохранили лучшие черты знаменитых предшественников.
Вполне заслуженно лучшим хронометром названы красивые и сложные часы Chronometrie Ferdinand Berthoud — FB 2RE.2. Владелец марки, сопрезидент Chopard Карл-Фридрих Шойфеле гордится этими часами с нарочито классическим обликом и анкерным механизмом, комбинирующим сразу несколько редчайших усложнений. Сотворчать с ним мог лишь Bernhard Lederer Central Impulse Chronometer независимого мастера Бернхарда Ледерера, в котором он представляет свое решение переменных механических задач, а именно узел спуска, удлинившийся там, где спасовал его кумир, великий часовщик Джордж Дэниелс.
В категории «Календарь» победила самая старая женевская марка Vacheron Constantin, существующая уже почти три века. Премию ей дали за часы Vacheron Constantin Overseas Quantieme Perpetuel Skeleton, которые безукоризненно сочетают сложность и красоту механизма со спортивным корпусом Overseas. Это классический западный календарь. В категории «Инновация» награждены Parmigiani Heurtier и Hijri Perpetual Calendar — разработанный Мишелем Парминджани для наручных часов мусульманский лунный календарь.
В номинации «Вызов» победила модель Tudor Black Bay Fifty-Eight Navy Blue, названная так в честь первых часов Tudor для ныряльщиков, вышедших в 1958 году, а лучшими мужскими сложными часами стали Greubel Forsey Hand Made 1. Это удивительные часы, выполненные почти полностью вручную, на манер позапрошлого века, без использования современных машин и технологий. Время их изготовления — 6 тыс. часов, настоящий подвиг мастеров, готовых отдать несколько лет жизни ради единственного экземпляра.

Зал женевского театра Лоэли, обычно забитый до отказа в день Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Geneve, на сей раз был заполнен наполовину зрителей

В важной категории «Мужские часы» второй год подряд оказывается финн Кари Вутилайнен, давно работающий в Швейцарии и создавший собственную фабрику в Вель-де-Травере. В прошлом году он был награжден за нарочито технологические Vutilainen 28i со смело открытым механизмом, в этом — за столь же нарочито классические с синим циферблатом 28SC. Кари Вутилайнен — привычный фаворит конкурса. Интересно, не повторится ли с ним та же история, что с таким же талантливым часовщиком Франсуа-Полем Журном, которого на GPHG премировали из года в год, пока он не сбежал с соревнования, решив держаться подальше и от поклонников, и от завистников.
Дамскую премию — «Золотую стрелку» — получили часы Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept. В них удалось уменьшить высоту механизма до рекордных 2 мм благодаря тому, что корпус стал его составной частью. Первые модели два года назад показывали в Женеве в специальном футляре, чтобы случайно не сломать. «Пришлось немало поработать, чтобы они смогли стать настоящими часами, пригодными для ежедневного пользования,— говорит глава Piaget Шаби Нури.— Altiplano Ultimate Concept — вершина возможностей не только Piaget, но и часового искусства в целом. Эти часы не будут выходить в больших сериях, они будут редкостью и достанутся самым верным нашим клиентам».

СЪЕЗД ПОБЕДИТЕЛЕЙ ЛАУРЕАТЫ ЖЕНЕВСКОГО КОНКУРСА

Глава Piaget Шабн Нури получил «Золотую стрелку» за сверхтонкие Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept

«ЗОЛОТАЯ СТРЕЛКА»
PIAGET ALTIPLANO ULTIMATE CONCEPT

В течение многих лет часовщики Piaget ставили рекорды тонкости благодаря своему знаменитому механизму 9P, впервые показанному в 1957 году на ярмарке Baselworld. Со временем марка нашла для себя другие приоритеты, в основном в ювелирном деле и в женских часах. Однако ее инженеры смогли построить самые тонкие в мире часы Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept, имеющие высоту всего 2 мм. Это особая механика, соединяющая воедино корпус, становящийся в часах платиной, и подвижные элементы, которые разложены по нему в один слой, что уменьшает высоту, зато увеличивает диаметр корпуса. Сталь же сложным было разработать зубчатые колеса толщиной всего 0,12 мм и сапфировое стекло 0,2 мм. Похоже, в ближайшее время рекорд в 2 мм не будет превзойден. Пока что эти часы выглядят скорее выставочным экземпляром, чем предметом на каждый день, но, вероятно, на базе своего нового сверхтонкого механизма в будущем Piaget сможет разработать столь же тонкие часы с усложнениями.

Стоимость 410 тыс. CHF

Владелец Bovet 1822 Паскаль Раффи умёс с церемонии два приза: за лучшие женские Miss Audrey и за исключительно сложные Recital 26 Brainstorm Chapter Two

«ЖЕНСКИЕ ЧАСЫ»
BOVET 1822 MISS AUDREY

Мануфактура Паскаля Раффи Bovet 1822 разработала трансформируемый корпус Amadeo, который может использоваться для наручных часов, стать настольными часами или превратиться в кулон. В данном случае он изготовлен из стали, его диаметр всего 36 мм. Мануфактурный механизм с автоматическим подзаводом обеспечивает запас хода 42 часа. Зеленый циферблат выполнен лаком по гильошу, кольцо и часовые индексы украшены бриллиантами.

Стоимость 20,5 тыс. CHF

«ИСКЛЮЧИТЕЛЬНАЯ МЕХАНИКА»
BOVET 1822 RECITAL 26 BRAINSTORM CHAPTER TWO

«Вторая глава», разработанная мастерами Bovet 1822, — это уникальный механизм, сочетающий указатель лунных фаз с отображением времени сразу во всех 24 часовых поясах. Турбийон на «6 часах» одновременно отсчитывает секунды, а главный циферблат, смещенный к «12 часам», показывает время в выбранной точке земли. Все это собрано в крупном прозрачном корпусе 47,8 мм из сапфирового стекла с наклонной передней крышкой.

Кари Вутилайнен снова стал Лучшим автором мужских часов — Voutilainen 28SC

«МУЖСКИЕ ЧАСЫ»
VOUTILAINEN 28SC

Новая классика финна Кари Вутилайнена имеет знакомый нам мануфактурный механизм Vingt-8 со специально разработанным сдвоенным узлом спуска, более точным и долговечным, чем классический, якорный. Эту сложность ничем не выдает строгий корпус из титана с голубым гильошированным циферблатом, рассчитанный на фанатов часовой классики Voutilainen, причем, несмотря на номинацию, как на мужчин, так и на женщин. Таких немного, но и часов всего 10.

Стоимость 74 тыс. CHF

Дэвид Бернер и Стивен Форси создали с целой командой часовщиков Лучшие мужские часы с усложнениями Greubel Forsey Hand Made 1

«МУЖСКИЕ ЧАСЫ С УСЛОЖНЕНИЯМИ»
GREUBEL FORSEY HAND MADE 1

Как и следует из названия, это часы Hand Made, то есть сделанные вручную на станках XIX века. Чтобы изготовить часы на 95% собранные на старинный манер, часовщикам потребовалось около трех лет работы. Каждая из 272 деталей механизма с турбийоном и 36 деталей корпуса была произведена с помощью техники прошлого, но с уровнем точности и совершенства настоящего. Часовщики решили доказать, что для этого им не нужны компьютеры и станки-автоматы, достаточно иметь золотые руки.

Стоимость 750 тыс. CHF

Жан-Кристоф Бабен взял для возглавляемой им Bvlgari приз за возрождение часов-легенды Bvlgari Aluminium

«ЧАСЫ-ЛЕГЕНДА»
BVLGARI ALUMINIUM CHRONOGRAPH

Выпустив вариант своей пионерской в 1998 году алюминиевой модели, дизайнеры Bvlgari изрядно поновили икону. Они не только увеличили размер с 38 мм до 40 мм, но и заменили прежний кварц на автоматический механизм, использовали новый алюминиевый сплав и подобрали современный резиновый браслет. Многие детали корпуса сделаны теперь не из алюминия или стали, а из титана. При всех изменениях преемственность модели 2020 года не вызывает сомнения (подробнее о ней — на стр. 36).

Сопрезидент Chopard и владелец Ferdinand Berthoud Карл-Фридрих Шойфеле был справедливо признан за Chronometrie Ferdinand Berthoud FB 2RE.2

«ХРОНОМЕТРИЯ»
CHRONOMETRIE FERDINAND BERTHOUD FB 2RE.2

Вторая марка, созданная сопрезидентом Chopard Карлом-Фридрихом Шойфеле, берет еще один приз на женевском конкурсе. Уже получив однажды за прошлый вариант FB1 «Золотую стрелку», он отмечен теперь за создание самого необычного и точного хронометра года, комбинирующего фузею с минипторной цепью и устройством постоянной силы с «мертвой» секундой. Ну и за страстную любовь к часовому делу, конечно (интервью с Карлом-Фридрихом Шойфеле — на стр. 15). Корпус в розовом золоте 44 мм, всего 10 экземпляров.

Стоимость 210 тыс. CHF

Генеральный директор Vacheron Constantin Лун Ферра получил в «категории календаря и астрономических часов с тонкими Overseas Perpetual Calendar Ultra-Thin Skeleton

«КАЛЕНДАРИ И АСТРОНОМИЧЕСКИЕ УСЛОЖНЕНИЯ»
VACHERON CONSTANTIN OVERSEAS PERPETUAL CALENDAR ULTRA-THIN SKELETON

Вечный календарь со скелетонированным механизмом вышел в «спортивной» линии Overseas. В новых часах Vacheron Constantin сложность механизма эффектно контрастирует с простым корпусом розового золота 4,05 мм диаметром 41,5 мм. Появление в прошлом году модели Overseas с турбийоном предвещало перемены в линии, до сих пор редко поражавшей техникой. Нынешний вечный календарь тенденцию к усложнению подтвердил, вызвав справедливое одобрение жюри.

Стоимость 127 тыс. CHF

Эрик де Роюнье из Van Cleef & Arpels принял два приза — за Лучшие ювелирные и за Лучший художественный часы: Frivole Secrete и Lady Arpels Soleil Feerique

«ЮВЕЛИРНЫЕ ЧАСЫ»
VAN CLEEF & ARPELS FRIVOLE SECRETE

Часы «с секретом» расположены внутри золотого соцветия на открытом браслете рядом со вторым цветком — и дух парного ювелирного украшения ой ее ной (еты и ям). Чтобы увидеть усыпанный бриллиантами циферблат, надо повернуть часть соцветия. Механизм, разумеется, кварцевый, но в категории «Ювелирные часы» недостатком это не считается. (Интервью с главой Van Cleef & Arpels Николя Босом — на стр. 14).

Стоимость 42,2 тыс. CHF

«ХУДОЖЕСТВЕННЫЕ ЧАСЫ»
VAN CLEEF & ARPELS LADY ARPELS SOLEIL FEERIQUE

Часы из специальной коллекции «Необыкновенные циферблаты» сочетают множество техник отделки и материалов, в том числе белое и желтое золото, бриллианты, витражную эмаль plique-à-jour, желтые сапфиры, маркетри из лазурита, оникса и перламутра. Механизм с ручным подзаводом и запасом хода в 40 часов. Всего три экземпляра.

«ЧАСЫ ДЛЯ НЫРЯЛЬЩИКОВ»
BREITLING SUPEROCEAN AUTOMATIC 48 BOUTIQUE EDITION

Часы в титановом корпусе 48 мм имеют темно-зеленый циферблат со светящимися метками и керамическое вращающееся кольцо. Для большей безопасности оно может блокироваться специальной кнопкой, расположенной слева. Новые Breitling Superocean получили, точно подходящая лодка, двойной корпус — внешний с водонепроницаемостью до 300 метров и внутренний антимагнитный из мягкого железа.

Стоимость 5,35 тыс. CHF

«МАЛЕНЬКАЯ СТРЕЛКА»
BREITLING SUPEROCEAN HERITAGE '57 LIMITED EDITION II

«Маленькая стрелка» предназначена часам стоимостью до 10 тыс. швейцарских франков включительно. Новая работа Breitling награждена не только за свои дизайнерские качества, оцененные аудиторией (первая серия в 1000 часов была быстро раскуплена), но и за решение выпустить вторую серию в пользу медицинских работников — им пойдет часть выручки от продажи новых Superocean Heritage '57. В общей сложности Breitling обещает пожертвовать на борьбу с вирусом 500 тыс. швейцарских франков.

Стоимость 4,35 тыс. CHF

Глава Breitling Жорж Керн поднимался на сцену дважды: «Маленькую стрелку» получили Superocean Heritage '57 Limited Edition II, лучшими часами для ныряльщиков признаны Superocean Automatic 48 Boutique Edition

Эдуар Мейлан, владелец H. Moser & Cie, был награжден как лично — за лучший хронограф Streamliner Flyback Chronograph Automatic, так и вместе с Максимилианом Биссаром из MB&F — за храбрость в часах Endeavour Cylindrical Tourbillon H. Moser X MB&F

«ХРОНОГРАФ»
H. MOSER & CIE STREAMLINER FLYBACK CHRONOGRAPH AUTOMATIC

Хронограф марки H. Moser & Cie имеет узнаваемый обтекаемый корпус в духе аэродинамических обводов локомотивов 1930-х годов. Механизм с центральным указателем и возвратной стрелкой flyback был разработан вместе со знаменитым женевским конструкторским бюро Agenhor. Особенность этих часов — простой циферблат с одной общей индикацией отсчета вместо привычных суммирующих счетчиков минут и часов.

Стоимость 39 тыс. CHF

«ЗА ХРАБРОСТЬ»
H. MOSER & CIE ENDEAVOUR CYLINDRICAL TOURBILLON H. MOSER X MB&F

Плод сотрудничества марок Эдуара Мейлана и Максимилиана Биссера соединяет турбийон с цилиндрической пружиной баланса H. Moser & Cie с сапфировым куполом и трехмерным циферблатом MB&F. Продукт умножения двух умений с материковскими фантазийными циферблатами fume имел феноменальный успех и был раскуплен еще до конкурса. Обещаны переиздания веселеньких цветов Funky Blue, Cosmic Green, Burgundy, Off-White и Ice Blue.

«ЖЕНСКИЕ ЧАСЫ С УСЛОЖНЕНИЯМИ»
CHARLES GIRARDIER TOURBILLON SIGNATURE MYSTERIEUSE «FLEUR DE SEL»

Патрик Улым, генеральный директор Charles Girardier, принял ожидаемый приз за усложнение в женских часах Tourbillon Signature Mysterieuse «Fleur de Sel»

Марка Charles Girardier появилась совсем недавно, но возводит свою родословную к часовщику XIX века Шарлю Жирардье. В духе позапрошлого века голубой циферблат выполнен в технике горячей эмали, grand feu, с накладными украшениями из сусального золота или серебра. На отметке «6 часов» находится «летящий» турбийон, а на «12 часах» автоматон, демонстрирующий в движении монограмму бренда. Самый спорный приз на нынешнем Женевском конкурсе. Посмотрим, как будет расплачиваться Charles Girardier дальше, и проверим, была ли его победа такой ошибкой, как кажется сейчас.

Стоимость 90 тыс. CHF

«ВЫЗОВ»
TUDOR BLACK BAY FIFTY-EIGHT NAVY BLUE

Ролан Эндерли из Tudor получил премию «Вызов» за Black Bay Fifty-Eight Navy Blue

Модель Black Bay Fifty-Eight Navy Blue своим названием обязана фирменному синему цвету, а также 1958 году, давшему жизнь первым часам Tudor с водонепроницаемостью до 200 метров, специально выпущенным для ныряльщиков. «Вторая линия» Rolex уже не в первый раз побеждает на женевском конкурсе — то в «Маленькой стрелке», то, как сейчас, в «Вызове», где участвуют часы стоимостью до 4 тыс. швейцарских франков.

Стоимость 3,5 тыс. CHF

«ИННОВАЦИЯ»
PARMIGIANI FLEURIER HIJRI PERPETUAL CALENDAR

Приемо за инновацию получил за часы с мусульманским календарем Hijri Реми Сомпар генеральный директор Parmigiani Fleurier Давид Транслер

Как часто бывало в практике гильи марки Мишеля Парминджани, наручные часы появились в результате его работы над реставрацией старинных моделей — в данном случае над реставрацией карманных часов с арабским календарем в 1993 году. В 2011-м он разработал настольные часы, а теперь уменьшил механизм до наручных. Часы с исламским лунным вечным календарем, несомненно, найдут покупателей среди любителей мусульманской культуры — сколько их будет выпущено, зависит от заказов.

Стоимость 80 тыс. CHF

«ЧАСОВОЕ ОТКРЫТИЕ»
PETERMANN BEDAT DEAD BEAT SECOND

«Часовым открытием» признали Галия Петерманна и Флориана Беду за Petermann Bedat Dead Beat Second

Часовым открытием сочли работу молодых часовщиков Галия Петерманна и Флориана Беды. Они познакомились в часовой школе Женевы, учились потом в самом часовом из германских городов, Пфорцхайме, а работают в швейцарском Ренене под крылом у Доминика Рено, одного из основателей Renaud et Papi. Их часы используют так называемую мертвую, или прыгающую, секундную стрелку — в механических часах, в отличие от кварцевых, этого не так-то легко добиться. Всего 10 экземпляров.

Стоимость 64,4 тыс. CHF

LOS CAMBIOS ESTIMULAN EL GPHG

Los Oscar de la relojería estrenan este año una Academia de 350 miembros y un sistema nuevo de votación que permite participar a nuevas firmas y productos innovadores

TEXTO YOLANDA RUIZ

El voto de la Academia

El GPHG se celebra desde 2001. En 2018, cuando Raymond Loretan tomó el mando de la Fundación del GPHG, se puso en marcha una renovación para convertir este evento relojero en un suceso con proyección mundial, más glamuroso y democrático. Lo primero ha sido la creación de la Academia, que reúne a 350 personas conocedoras del sector relojero (empresarios, inlfuencers, aficionados, periodistas...). Ellos, gracias a una plataforma digital, propusieron 4,700 relojes. El 26 de agosto, el GPHG anunció que 226 (196 en 2019) competirán por ser candidatos. Y estos se anunciarán el 15 de septiembre.

Nuevas reglas

En esta edición 2020, el jurado seguirá siendo de 30 personas, Estará compuesto por 14 miembros de la Academia elegidos al azar y 15 de la Academia seleccionados por la GPHG para garantizar una buena combinación a nivel profesional y geográfico. Otro participante será el ganador del año anterior de la Aiguille d'Or, en este caso un representante de Audemars Piguet. Ellos elegirán a los vencedores. Sus votos se complementarán con los votos online de los integrantes de la nueva institución. El jurado cambiará cada año. Este año participan 122 marcas, 13 firmas más que en 2019.

Más democrático

La nueva plataforma digital ha permitido a todos los miembros de la Academia, desde cualquier punto del globo, subir sus propuestas de relojes. Esto ha abierto la posibilidad de que se postulen nuevas firmas y la apuesta por productos innovadores. El único requisito es que las piezas se comercialicen entre mayo de 2019 y diciembre de 2020. Otra novedad es la inclusión de la categoría smartwatch. Además de las 14 categorías, el jurado reconocerá el Premio a la Audacia, el Premio a la Innovación, el Premio Revelación Relojera, el Premio Especial del Jurado y la Aiguille d'Or al mejor reloj del año.

Un trofeo simbólico

Los ganadores recibirán un trofeo con un simbolismo único. La presea fue idea del pintor y diseñador gráfico suizo Roger Pfund, también autor del diseño del pasaporte suizo y de algunos billetes de Europa. El galardón es una mano, símbolo de habilidad y dominio, ambas claves para todos los oficios de relojería. El artista se inspiró en el fresco del techo de la Capilla Sixtina, pintado por Miguel Ángel, en el que Dios toca la mano extendida de Adán para darle vida. También simboliza la memoria y la transmisión del conocimiento. Hasta el momento, la firmas que han ganado más trofeos son Audemars Piguet, Piaget y TAG Heuer.

GPHG Academy Prepares for November Awards

APRIL 9, 2020

The Academy of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG), now reorganized with 350 members in its first year of existence, is transforming its selection and voting process as it ramps up for the annual GPHG Awards ceremony, this year scheduled for November 12 in Geneva.

On April 8, the Academy published a full list of the 350 Academy members for 2020. Their first mission, according to a GPHG press release, is to propose eligible watch models, starting in May.

Tell Us Your Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève-Worthy Contenders: The 2020 GPHG Nominating Academy Members (Well At Least A Few Of Them) Are Listening

by Ian Skellern

Along with my Quill & Pad colleagues Elizabeth Doerr and GaryG, I have the honor to be a member of the 2020 GPHG Academy. And one of our first roles is to nominate watches in each GPHG category that we feel represent the best in their class – submissions close June 5, 2020.

As might you, I tend to focus on my favorite niche sectors of the horological world. And as I started to put rough lists of watches together, I realized that I was likely only aware of a fraction of watches that are both eligible and noteworthy. And as my favorite niche sectors are likely to be different than yours, many of you will know about watches that I, and perhaps other Academy members, don't.

Why This Year's GPHG Seems Surreal, And What Happens Next

Roberta Naas / June 24, 2020

Entries for GPHG 2020 competition is now open to brands.

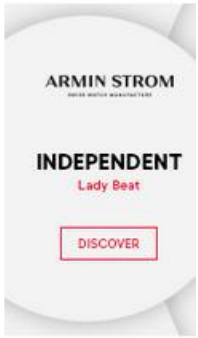

The 2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève is upon us. Considered by many to be the Oscars of the watch world, the event honors watchmaking at its finest. Each year in November, the industry gathers in Geneva for an incredible award ceremony where we all learn who has won the different prize categories. It is truly a Who's Who of the industry and I have enjoyed attending year after year. This year, though, there are new rules, new procedures and a somewhat surreal atmosphere surrounding the process.

Time To Enter The GPHG 2020

Before I get to that, though, it is important to note that today the GPHG organization invites international watch brands to enter the 2020 edition via a new digital platform. Brands can enter as many watches as they want from

Deadline for entries is July 31, 2020.

Watch brands can now start to reach for one of the trophies of the upcoming 20th edition of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG)

The Academy's selection of watches (each member was "responsible for proposing 1 to 12 watches per category in at least 8 of the 14 categories of the GPHG") are now being submitted to the watch brands, which can then decide whether or not they want to confirm the participation of the proposed watches, and/or enter other watches of their choice in the competition.
Last year, Seiko won in the "Diver's Watch" category with the Prospex LX Line Spring Drive Diver SNR029J1

The 2020 list of award-winners will be revealed on Thursday November 12 at the 20th GPHG award ceremony. A new award introduced this year will also allow the Academy and the Jury to select an award-worthy smartwatch.

An Open Letter To Watch Brand CEOs: Why You Should Enter The 2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG)

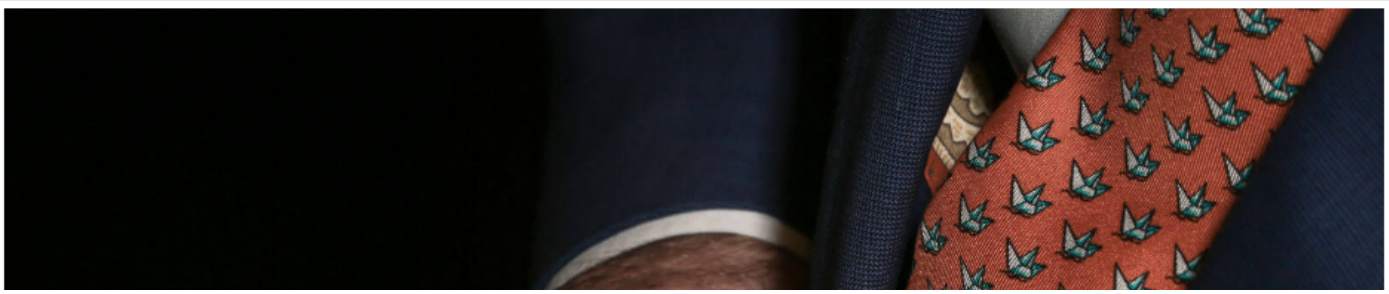

by GaryG

Gentlemen and Ladies:

Greetings! Whether you know it or not, you have – collectively and individually – made a real difference in my life. Your products have brought me countless hours of joy, and the people I've met through watches have become many of my very closest friends.

One of the happiest side benefits of my active involvement in the watch hobby over the years has been the opportunity to interact with, and learn from, many of the industry's business and creative leaders. If I've met you already, I consider it to have been a privilege; if not, I hope to make your acquaintance in the future and hear about your perspectives, goals, and challenges.

Right now, you have an opportunity to make another real difference, this time to the health of the mechanical watch industry and the prosperity of your own brand. Whether or not your brand has participated in the past regularly, occasionally or not at all, 2020 is the year for you to commit to entering your best new pieces in the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Geneve.

Complete List And Photos Of All Shortlisted Watches In The 2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG)

by Elizabeth Doerr

The 2020 edition of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) has just published the list of shortlisted ("nominated") watches in the run-up to the eagerly anticipated red-carpet event in Geneva on November 12, 2020.

The categories for 2020 constitute the following: Ladies, Ladies Complication, Men's, Men's Complication, Iconic, Chronograph, Chronometry, Mechanical Exception, Calendar and Astronomy, Divers, Jewellery, Artistic Crafts, Petite Aiguille (watches with retail prices between 4,000 and 10,000 Swiss francs), and Challenge (watches with retail prices under 4,000 Swiss francs).

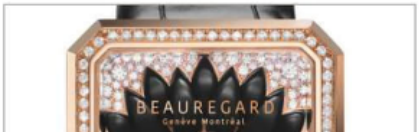

The main prize of the evening is the Aiguille d'Or, the best watch overall among all the entrants, which will be voted in the room by a smaller jury chosen from the 400 Academy members.

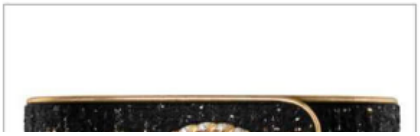

Due to the COVID-19 situation of 2020, there is no world tour scheduled for the shortlisted watches this year. However, they will most likely be available to view in Geneva sometime soon. I fear that must all still be determined.

But enough preamble, let's have a look at the watches that are in serious contention for the prizes as of today.

THE FOUNDATION OF THE GRAND PRIX D'HORLOGERIE DE GENÈVE ANNOUNCES THE LIST OF NOMINATED WATCHES CONTESTING FOR 20TH GPHG AWARDS

September 18, 2020 MasterHorologer NEWS Leave a comment

The Foundation of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) has announced the list of 84 watches nominated by its Academy.

Created at the beginning of 2020, the GPHG Academy – encompassing more than 350 key players from the main sectors of the international watch industry – has recently conducted its first round of voting via a dedicated digital platform specially designed to preserve the anonymity of information and the confidentiality of the results.

The 84 nominated timepieces, divided into 14 categories, will continue the competition to win one of the 18 prizes intended to salute the year's finest watchmaking creations, including the prestigious "Aiguille d'Or" Grand Prix.

A jury of 30 members drawn from the Academy, will soon be constituted and meet behind closed doors in Geneva. During this notary-supervised encounter, they will physically evaluate each of the nominated watches and cast a final vote by secret ballot. All Academy members will also take part in the final vote via the dedicated digital platform.

The names of the winners will be announced on Thursday November 12, 2020, at the 20th GPHG awards ceremony, a unifying event that plays a strategic role in promoting the new models released by the sector. An update will be provided in October regarding detailed arrangements for the awards ceremony, in accordance with the prevailing public health measures.

Every year, Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) highlights and awards the year's standout watch releases in various categories. There are awards for mens' and ladies' watches, precision timekeeping, complications, style, and more. The full list of shortlisted watches was published last week and available on the GPHG website.

As you might expect, a list that aims to highlight the most impressive and horologically interesting watches of the year is abound with pieces that, for the 99%, are simply unattainable. Among these pieces is the Jacob & Co. Bugatti Chiron, a piece made in collaboration with Bugatti to reproduce the essence of the iconic supercar on your wrist. Priced at 280,000 CHF, it costs "only" 10% as much as the car itself.

The Watchmakers' Award: How the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève Became the Industry's Gold Standard

Written by
Roger Ruegger
September 26, 2020

Created in 2001, the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) has established itself as the most important award show in the industry. Here's a look back at how the event started, the performance of the competing brands and, just as important, how much the event has evolved over the last two decades.

The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève was created in 2001 with the aim to "highlight and [...] reward the most remarkable contemporary creations and promote the watchmaking art worldwide." The founding members were the Canton of Geneva, the City of Geneva, the Musée international d'horlogerie in La Chaux-de-Fonds (MIH), the Geneva Laboratory of Watchmaking and Microtechnology (Timelab) and the Edipresse Group. Until 2019, watch brands were able to enter their most promising models in up to 14 categories, with a (comparatively small) fee per watch, and an additional, more substantial, fee for shortlisted watches that would later take part in the global traveling exhibition. Carine Maillard, Director of the GPHG, says, "The GPHG is a media showcase and a great promotional tool. The preselected watches are presented every year in autumn, during an exceptional exhibition, which travels the globe. Winning watches have significant visibility thanks to international media coverage. We keep GG: Another very nice selection of watches! I had the privilege of announcing the winner of this category – the Voutilainen 28 Ti – last year on-stage in Geneva, and this time around we have another Voutilainen and five other quite pleasing pieces to consider.

One watch that missed out on the party and that I think deserves mention is the Kikuchi Nakagawa Murakumo, a decidedly classical piece that stretches the boundaries of watchmaking convention by boasting a black-polished case and buckle. This might just be the one watch I'd buy but not wear – imagine the first scratch!

The 2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) Jury Has Been Chosen: Commentary On The Judges Making The Choices For The Best Watches Of The Year

by Elizabeth Doerr

In perusing the names of the 2020 jury of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève, two distinct things became obvious: the entire jury is based in Switzerland and it is far less diverse than it has been over the last decade.

It was foregone conclusion to me that this year's jury would be chosen from among the GPHG Academy's Swiss residents: the ongoing COVID-19 crisis has made travel once again all but impossible. This way, the jury has both the option of meeting in person safely and attending the award ceremony on November 12 should an in-person event be possible.

Fantastic Four: Dark Horses of GPHG 2020

As always, this time of the year is full of pleasant comparisons. You take some outstanding watches and put them against others, usually totally different and equally charming. And while the actual judgment goes only to the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève jury, who can keep themselves from having personal preferences, right? We felt especially happy to see some really small and sometimes unsung brands reaching shortlist, and decided to highlight four very special watches, that could be slightly overlooked considering how broad is this year's competition.

GPHG Nears Final Vote For Winners, Commentary On Academy

Roberta Naas / October 28, 2020

The Grand Prix d' Horlogerie de Genève, GPHG, award is in the shape of a hand... symbolizing the hand craftsmanship and so much more that goes into watchmaking.

Following a Swiss-based traveling roadshow that went from La Chaux de Fonds to Zurich and then Bern, the 84 watches up for the Grand Prix de Horlogerie d' Geneva awards will be on exhibit in Geneva starting October 30 and through November 15 at the Musee d'Art et d' Histoire. The prize ceremony for the GPHG will take place at the Theater de Leman on November 12. Earlier this year, I wrote how this year's GPHG seems a little surreal. I haven't changed my mind. But then, everything this year seems surreal.

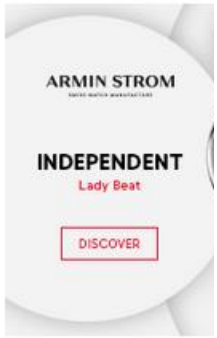

As A GPHG Academy Member

Somehow, without being able to have a global in-person judging situation, or even an in-person event (except for the Swiss who can attend and social distance), it just leaves me feeling a little flat. That's not unlike anything else this year, though.

As a member of the judging Academy, I have followed the processes to the letter, voting in some brands for consideration, casting a ballot for the finals and now, voting for my favorite of six watches in each of the winning categories. I hope some of my picks make it through – but we won't know until the virtual event on the night of

by Elizabeth Doerr

As a premier name in the world of haute couture, it stands to reason that Dior would find inspiration in its rich heritage of fashion for use in its haute horlogerie. The Grand Bal line was created in tribute to Christian Dior's personal taste in festivities allowing him to celebrate his work's raison d'être.

Like the hours spent crafting one of his flamboyant ball gowns using endless meters of fabric and complicated patterns, the models in the Grand Bal line unite a keen sense of fashion with aesthetic mechanical details to please the female wrist.

These coalesce mechanically in the Dior Inversé Caliber, which was jointly developed by Swiss movement maker Soprod and Dior's own watchmakers in La Chaux-de-Fonds. These little oeuvres proudly boast functional automatic winding rotors on the dial sides of each model: the perpetual to-and-fro of the movement evokes the idea of a swirl of a ball gown that could have been present at one of Monsieur Dior's legendary parties.

Automatic watches generally feature their rotors on the back – it is both unusual and eye-catching to place the rotor on the front of the dial. And in this case, it fits the concept like no other.

Borrowed Time: The GPHG-Winning Seiko Prospex 1968 Diver's Re-Creation SLA025J1

Written by

In 1968, three years after the brand's first dive watch was released (the 62MAS or Reference 6217-800x with 150-meter water resistance), Seiko's engineers managed to raise the bar with a Hi-Beat divers' watch with 300-meter water resistance (Reference 6159-700x). This model was not only the first Japanese dive watch to be equipped with a 10-beat high-precision automatic caliber (6159A), it also featured – like its predecessor from 1967 (Reference 6215-7000) – a case design with a one-piece structure, a screw-down crown at 4 o'clock and a rotating (albeit bidirectional) bezel. Fifty years later, Seiko decided to finally bring back one of its most sought-after dive-watch designs in a limited edition of 1,500 pieces. Another watch with similar roots, however, has already been around during the last 18 years and has built up quite a following.

I am particularly happy to see that there is a big proportion of Indies in the winners, and most of them are well known by us here. Because we are in the Indies Forum here, we'll concentrate on this segment and leave others announce the other winners even if we are glad to congratulate all winners with no exception of course 😃.

Let us start with a very coveted prize, the "Men's Watch Prize" won this year by our dear friend Kari Voutilainen with his Twenty-8 SC (for Seconde Centrale) with case in titanium. The two tone dial is made in house, it is made from silver and engine turned by hand.

When it comes to sheer theatricality, few watch brands can match Bovet. The release of the Bovet Récital 26 Brainstorm Chapter Two in June 2020 was a perfect example of this, with an audacious double face flying tourbillon flanked by dramatically domed subdials perched above an intricately decorated skeleton movement. Having just earned the Mechanical Exception prize at the 2020 GPHG awards, the Brainstorm Chapter Two series now turns to changing the character of this theatrical design in a far more playful direction. The limited-edition Bovet Récital 26 Brainstorm Chapter Two Sunshine Collection is the result of this, bringing a bold and joyful color palette to the intricate haute horlogerie line.

NOVEMBER 13, 2020 BY STEPHEN — LEAVE A COMMENT

The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève ceremony took place yesterday, November 12, 2020. Although attendance was limited to winners and helium-filled balloons, the ceremony once again proved both the importance and self-importance of Geneva as a center for the luxury watch industry. Although most of the prizes went against my choices, some were well-deserved and no one asked for my vote in any case!

11/13/20 EDIT: Updated title as the winners have now been announced, discussion below.

The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) is an annual watch competition that I always look forward to. Makers submit their watches for consideration, so it is somewhat dependent on the makers choosing to participate - and many do.

Back in August the full list of competing watches was published. (Some discussion is here: GPHG Competing Watches Published)

The judges have now narrowed that to 6 "nominated watches" in each category. You can see all of these watches here:

In November, a winner from each category will be announced, along with a few other special prizes and awards. As usual, some really neat watches have made the finals. The Petite Aguille and Challenge categories are interesting as they are restricted to somewhat more affordable watches (under 10,000CHF for Petite Aguille and uner 4000CHF for the Challenge).

Here are my totally POOMA guesses at the winner from each category:

Ladies'

Despite the challenges the industry had to face this year, it needed a celebration and some joy. So here we are, as the 2020 edition of the GPHG, known as the "Oscars of the watchmaking industry", has come to a close and the prize for the best watch of the year, also known as the "Aiguille d'Or", has been awarded. As often with the Grand Prix, the focus has been on creativity, innovation and high-end watchmaking. Without surprise, the best watch of 2020 is the Piaget Altiplano Ultimate Concept, the world's thinnest mechanical watch ever made (at 2mm). A well-deserved prize, if you ask us, considering the impressive technical achievement.

Every year the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève occurs to recognise the efforts of watchmakers across the globe. Anyone can put forward a watch to be nominated with several categories, each of which has a winner. The jury will also nominate one watch to be the crown victor of the competition, winning a prize called the Aiguille d'Or. Here's the list of companies whose watches have won the Aiguille d'Or, and how many times they've won (including this year's winner):

On The Importance Of Antoine Simonin And His Special Jury Prize At The 2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève By Dr. Rebecca Struthers

by Dr. Rebecca Struthers

Of all the winners from the 2020 Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève, this was the one that really made me smile! Among all the glamour of the watch industry, it's easy to forget the importance of education and yet, without it the majority of watches in the longlist, let alone the winners, wouldn't exist.

It's impossible to overstate the importance of Antoine Simonin's contribution to horological education. For over 60 years, he has been sharing his knowledge with the next generation of watchmakers all over the world. It feels very fitting that the Special Jury Prize this year recognized one of the unsung heroes of our industry who has dedicated his life to giving back to others.

The 2020 edition of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève has just ended, and with its close, all of the night's winners have been announced with Piaget taking home the top prize (aka. the Aiguille D'Or). With more than 80 finalists selected by the new and 350-strong cast of Academy members, there could be only one grand prize among the 14 categories (19 prizes total), and the Altiplano Ultimate Concept took home both the handy statue and the clout of watchmaking's highest honor.

Why I Bought It: Kudoke Flieger Concept (KFC)

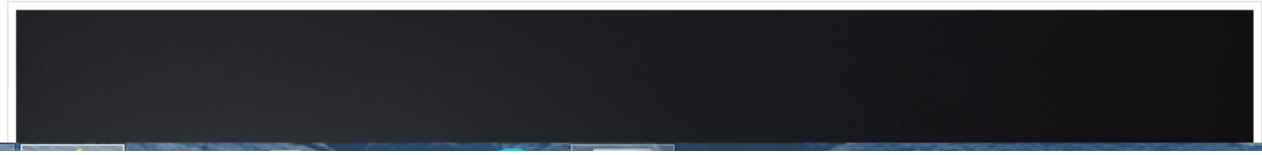

by Bhanu Chopra

Until 2019, Kudoke was a relatively unknown, small, independent watch company based in the town of Weifa in northern Germany between Dresden and the Czech border. Stefan Kudoke, owner and watchmaker, is well recognized for his engraving and skeletonizing skills: his watches usually have either an elaborately engraved dial and skeletonized movement or a skeletonized dial revealing wheels, springs, and levers with intricate engraving.

In 2019, Stefan Kudoke presented the new Kudoke 1 and 2 watches during Baselworld. Handling both watches, I thought that they were very different than the previous skeletonized Kudoke watches I was accustomed to. Both the Kudoke 1 and 2 have simple, elegant dials, the brilliance laying in the finishing and engraving of the newly developed movement (made in cooperation with Habring2).

Apparently, I was not alone. In the August 2019 issue of GQ, Wes Lang, a contemporary American artist hailing from Los Angeles, wrote an article on the Kudoke 1, stating, "Kudoke 1 represents the pinnacle of watch collecting."

Then in November 2019, husband-and-wife team Stefan and Ev Kudoke were called to the podium at the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève's awards ceremony, often referred to as the Oscars of watchmaking, to accept the award for the best watch in the Petite Aiguille category, which rewards watches costing between 4,000 and 10,000 Swiss francs. Winning this award brought Kudoke some long-awaited publicity and has led to more commercial success.

Reaction Blogs

Even in a pandemic, there will still be watch awards that can be given to some of the exceptional watches that were produced in the last year. This year, there were some very interesting watches that won awards - from Bovet, to Ferdinand Berthoud, the Tudor Black Bay, Breitling Superocean, Vacheron Constantin and Voutilainen. We walk you through the winners and talk about who we would pick for some of the categories.

1. How did it feel receiving the Men's Complication Watch Prize by the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève for Hand Made 1?

Of course for Robert and I this award is really significant. It's also a very much deserved and sound encouragement that the mission we set ourselves to safeguard skills has been recognised by the Jury of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève. But, above all it's recognition for our Hand Made team or "family" who worked so tirelessly through the 6'000 hours to make the Hand Made 1. Thanks to their dedication and passion the adventure could take form and become a reality.

2. What inspired you to create Hand Made 1?

Greubel Forsey represents a unique vision from the very beginning when Robert and I set ourselves the goal to bring back the highest possible level of hand finishing in pursuit of excellence. Today this still requires an average of 4-5 months man-hours for each individual Greubel Forsey timepiece.

When Robert and I started Greubel Forsey we couldn't find enough artisans with the necessary skills or even the traditional machines to be able to hand make all the parts by the hand-operated methods we had learnt, so we used more modern machines to rough out the unfinished parts. That meant we could focus more energy on saving the skills and expertise of "out and out" hand-finishing, skills which were already seriously endangered by industrialisation even then.

Hand Made 1 had to carry that spirit to the absolute, from the first piece of raw metal. Thanks to collectors who have supported Greubel Forsey -and our vision since the first timepiece was completed in 2004-, we have finally been able to bring together the Hand Made "family" of artisans and skilled craftsmen and women to make the dream and vision of Hand Made 1 happen.

3. What kind of R&D was required to marvel such a design?

This was very intense and new for the Hand Made 1, because we couldn't develop the way that modern production methods and machines allow. Each and every component had to be analysed and thought through in the smallest detail given the constraints imposed by traditional machines which are entirely hand operated. Some parts had to be redrawn or completely rethought numerous times while working closely with the different team members from the micromechanic to the hand finisher and the watchmaker.

4. What are the exquisite qualities that Hand Made 1 has over other timepieces?

Quite honestly, it's the whole timepiece. There's no comparison in horology for such a timepiece as it's certainly never been done before to such a level of finish and precision. We have therefore identified four essential criteria to define the project. First, any part in the timepiece that we call handmade can only be made using traditional hand operated tools and machines, so without any CNC machining, even right from the raw billet of metal. Second, only hand finishing is allowed for any handmade part. Third, each Hand Made 1 is built just by one watchmaker. And lastly, the handmade proportion must be over 90 per cent. Everything in Hand Made 1 meets these criteria except for the main spring, the jewels, the sapphire crystal, the bracelet spring bars and case gaskets.

5. To bring this design into existence, a team of skilled craftsmen was built. What were these skills and external talents that were required?

As Hand Made 1 uses such a vast array, there are too many to list. The film of the Hand Made 1 adventure is an excellent way for you to hear directly from the team members themselves, but we can highlight a few examples. Using traditional methods to be truly handmade, we had to rediscover many different techniques. 308 components, over 150 different types, the very diversity of which goes all the way from a simple pin to the balance and hairspring. It includes over 80 handmade screws of which there are more than 20 different types. A seemingly simple gear wheel can be made in perhaps twenty hours of intense concentration where hopefully nothing goes wrong, but as everything is hand guided, it really can at any moment rendering many hours of work wasted unless you can immediately start again on making a new part, slowly building the human expertise to get to the finished component to the required criteria.

6. What made you go back to the traditional tools in the times of modern technology?

It was definitely the worrying realisation that many critical traditional hand watchmaking skills were no longer being taught even in the Swiss watch schools. The industry didn't seem worried about this with the rapid progress of industrial manufacturing, so Robert and I decided that as someone had to take the responsibility for preserving these priceless and irreplaceable skills, Greubel Forsey with the unique skills of the team was the only way to take up that challenge and also to draw attention to the loss of skills, We have also actively encouraged the safeguarding and transmission of those traditional skills because watch collectors will need watchmakers in the future who know how to restore and maintain their watches and collections, to make that one-off replacement part. The skills we are practising in Hand Made 1 are at the very backbone of that culture and know how.

7. We read that it took 6000 hours to make one of this watch, what were the major challenges did you face?

Literally they were at every stage, but to choose one, it would certainly be the artisanal making of the balance "hair" spring.
Normally these springs are only made industrially in their 1000's or 10'000's, but we only needed just a few and to safeguard the expertise. We started out with a large billet of the special alloy we needed. Then we had to rediscover the many different processes. Some of which we knew the theoretical principles of already, while we were able to learn some others from a retired technician but then we had to apply these for ourselves to get to first base; a wire of just 0.5mm diameter which was then several hundred kilometres in length!
Next we needed to get this wire drawn and fashioned down to the final almost rectangular-section spring wire for a single hairspring. This is about 0.07 x 0.03mm (just half a human hair thick) and only 10 centimetres long. All this took an enormous amount of energy, resource and about six years to achieve. We had to make a lot of specific equipment and then to master the necessary techniques. Incredibly through all these stages we still didn't know if the wire was still good or if it had been spoiled in any of the different processes along the way. Next the wire had to be very carefully wound into a drum, where it could be heat treated to fix it into the perfect spiral shape. Now the spring could be mounted onto the balance wheel, adjusted and timed by hand and finally mounted into the tourbillon cage. The cage was built into the movement where we could finally get it ticking. Further adjusting of the timing again by hand and finally we could see if we had succeeded! We were delighted and perhaps relieved that after all this work the timing results and performance were exceptionally good and in fact well within our Greubel Forsey criteria. You can discover more about the hairspring making in the Hand Made film on our Youtube channel

8. To obtain the 308 components of the Hand Made 1 respecting Greubel Forsey criteria, over 800 parts had to be produced. What were these criteria?

We imposed on ourselves the same tolerances that we use for a Greubel Forsey timepiece in order to ensure precision, performance and reliability, it was necessary to aim for the 800 parts to try to be sure that there would be one of each part which fulfilled the final criteria to build the timepiece with. As mentioned earlier, the making process can go wrong at any moment until the part was completed so this was really the strict minimum.

9. What are some of the ancestral arts of watchmaking would you like to bring back to existence for the future generations?

The list is very long, with five hundred years of mechanical watches and clocks already in existence, many ancestral techniques have been lost over the years, we have begun the mammoth task to safeguard and transmit these for future generations, but we hope to dedicate more resource and energy, to this as each commissioned Hand Made 1 piece enables us to broaden the skills within our team.

10. What aspects must a watch embrace to qualify for a true Greubel Forsey style?

Quite simply put the Greubel Forsey style can be found in our logo "Art of Invention". The visible artistic side is really at one with the invention technical side of each individual timepiece. Of course there are many other qualities required too, for example, the creation must be timeless, original, rare and exceptionally well hand finished. This is a long and exhausting process to master.

11. You did mention that hand making a watch was your childhood dream, what had happened that influenced you to do so?

Robert's father was a watchmaker and at a young age, the fascination of the miniature world of the mechanical watch captured his imagination and so the dream to one day hand make a watch was born. For me, the fascination and beauty of the antique mechanisms of clocks and watches in Museums planted the seed and gave me the motivation to study Horology.
When Robert and I started working together over 20 years ago now, we realised that we wanted to understand how such fantastic scientific time measuring instruments were made with such skill even several hundreds of years ago. So the dream was a shared vision to learn those techniques and be able to one day create a Hand Made watch to show that it could still be done and add to the extraordinary history of mechanical Horology.

12. Are there any dreams that you feel that you and Robert have accomplished in terms of watchmaking?

We have certainly been able to bring back real invention to mechanical watchmaking. The combination in a Greubel Forsey timepiece is unique. An artistic and creative approach (which Robert leads) when viewed with the technical inventions, means that all of the 30 new, original and different calibres created since 2004, from the first invention of the Double Tourbillon 30° right up to the ground-breaking Grand Sonnerie or the Art Pieces, speak for themselves as an important part of our dream. Perhaps almost as important is that they are a lasting testimony to the skills and passion of the team at our Atelier here in La Chaux-de-Fonds.

13. Which Greubel Forsey timepiece, according to you, is an award worthy timepiece and why?

All of them are of course very special and worthy of attention, because they make up part of an adventure to rediscover and practice excellence in mechanical watch making. At the same time striving to add to the long history with new inventions and mechanisms rather than taking an easier path to focus only on different versions of the same watch movement which would have been a more commercial approach.

14. We adore your timepieces and we are sure that there are a lot more Greubel Forsey fans out there. Could you drop us a hint of new surprises that Greubel Forsey has in stock for us?

We communicate as much as we can about upcoming projects through our EWT platform which gives insight into the research and development going on, but the process can be long when you are breaking into unknown territory and so we cannot plan that an invention will be complete and able to launch on a specific date. This makes it difficult to give too much away in advance.
However, we can give your readers a glimpse into a truly original and exciting area which is Greubel Forsey's Mechanical Nano. We have been working on this for over 10 years now. We have delved right into the very fundamentals of mechanical watchmaking, quite simply put, space and energy. These have governed the miniaturisation of horology through the years and are both extremely limited in the micromechanical universe of a wristwatch, but these are the very boundaries we can break through with Mechanical Nano.
Here, we have taken a very original and completely different approach to that of the mainstream watch industry which has focused on miniaturising the same existing mechanisms. We have identified and are now really working with Nano quantities of energy!
This has never been done before but for us as a ground-breaking project it opens the field for the next 20-30 years of inventions and developments, not only for the mechanical watch, but also to be able to use our horological expertise to invent and contribute to other areas of application with this unique approach in the wider scientific domain.

H. Moser & Cie Funky Blue Streamliner Flyback Chronograph: Not Just Another Pretty Blue Face

Balance is such a difficult thing to achieve in watch design. I'm sure we all know multiple examples of pieces that are oh-so-close to being just right, with the exception of one feature or another that is either out of proportion or too prominent given the rest of the watch's elements.

And for whatever reason, certain combinations of dial and case colors seem to work better than others, with the ideal combinations (at least as seen by the center of gravity of enthusiast views) not universal across references but highly watch-specific.

Sure, the Vianney Halter Antiqua is made in other metals, but the pink gold version is "the one." And there's a reason why the Patek Philippe Reference 5070P in platinum with its blue slate dial resells for more than twice the price of the other 5070 variants.

6 Festive Watches From 2020 Bound To Unfetter Your Wrist This Season

by Elizabeth Doerr

What one person may consider extremely fancy, flashy, and reserved for only the most special occasions another might think of as a daily wearer because they love the style, the comfort, or how it makes them feel.

That is the beauty of watches: they represent your personal style as much as they are a tool for displaying the time.

When I see certain watches, I feel that they are best worn at festive times of year or at festive occasions – like the unbelievable beauties I have had the pleasure of donning at various editions of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève: the Vacheron Constantin Heures Créatives Heure Audacieuse (2019), the Fabergé Lady Compliquée Peacock Black (2017), and the fully diamond-set Chopard Classic (2015).

Sometimes you just want to be festive without being "too much," though, right? Well, I've got just the watches for your wearing pleasure this holiday season – all of which would look great and proportionate on every wrist regardless of gender. And all of which do not go overboard on the sparkle, yet do not fall short in radiant elegance.

A. Lange & Söhne Saxonia Thin with black aventurine dial: a shiny black hole

I shouldn't be so surprised: A. Lange & Söhne takes my breath away with every single release. But when I opened the photos of the Saxonia Thin with its new black aventurine dial, I was struck by such a strong longing that I actually laughed at myself. And who would have thought that it would be the dial of this Saxonia Thin, and not its movement, to do that to my poor heart?

42 Favorite Facts For 2020

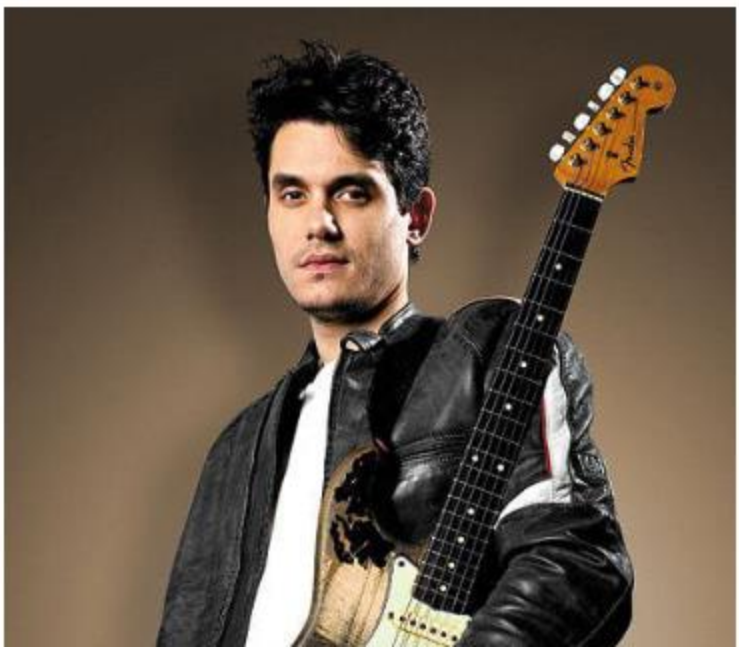

by Elizabeth Doerr

At the end of 2020, The New York Times published a story entitled "74 of Our Favorite Facts for 2020," which contained 74 of the most interesting, striking, or delightful facts that the editors found in articles published by the newspaper last year.

I found this article incredibly entertaining and educational and thought to do a similar one using fun facts mined from a year's worth of posts on Quill & Pad.

Quill & Pad also publishes a weekly spirits column written by Ken Gargett, so as well as covering the world of watches, some of the funn(i)est facts may concern wine, champagne, or hard liquor.

These are in no particular order and in no way represent any sort of ranking; they are just random facts I found interesting, entertaining, and/or educational in 2020. Enjoy!

上周五晚，2020年钟表行业的最后一个“大事件”宣告落幕，第20届GPHG日内瓦高级钟表大赏（Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève）颁奖典礼在日内瓦莱曼剧院举办，从现场的典礼照片可以看到，遭遇到疫情深远影响的钟表行业，最盛大的颁奖典礼也未能豁免。仅有少数的一些获奖嘉宾和专家到场的盛典，远没有过去的喧嚣，而主办方使用的气球却也让整个会场的风格多了几分温馨与人情味。

2020日内瓦高级钟表大赏得奖名单出炉（上）

2020-11-18 09:24

每年诞生的钟表杰作数不胜数，到底哪些腕表可堪称年度最佳？目前只有“日内瓦高级钟表大赏”可以给你最为中肯、最受业界认同的解答。自2001年创立至今，日内瓦高级钟表大赏已然成为全球关注度最高的钟表奖项，没有“之一”。

2020年瑞士当地时间11月12日举行了第20届的日内瓦钟表大赏（Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève, GPHG）颁奖典礼。今年的典礼能如期登场着实不易，毕竟在新冠肺炎疫情尚未真正拨云见日的时刻，要进行这种“聚众”的公开活动困难度较往年高出许多，而大会也明白在今年这种特殊情况下，要像往年正常且盛大举办颁奖是不切实际的方式，所以2020年的日内瓦钟表大赏趋向一切从简。除了相关必要出席人士之外并不开放其他观礼人士进场，同时出席贵宾也遵守着防疫规定在活动现场保持社交距离并尽可能地在室内戴上口罩以策安全。

创立于2001年，日内瓦钟表大赏（GPHG）这场时计评选，被视作钟表界“奥斯卡大奖”。评选针对所有制表品牌开放，每年有约三百个品牌及制表师带着他们最好的作品来竞相角逐全球高级制表业最负盛名、最具权威性和影响力的十余个奖项。

为了保证公平、公正的评选标准及优质的评选品质，GPHG的评审委员会成员主要由学术背景雄厚的博物馆馆长、历史学家，以及专业知识丰富的媒体从业人员等组成，四分之一的评选成员会定期轮换，各个领域的评审将让这次的评选结果更加独立、更加专业。

今年もやって参りました、GPHG 2020。今年は、候補ピースが世界ツアーをしないのかな？ という雰囲気のニュースが流れてきました。

過去の様子は、こちら、こちら、こちら、こちら、そして、こちら、です。

今年のGPHGについて決まっていることは、授賞式は2020年11月12日（木）に発表される、ということ。審査員も10月になったら発表とか。

取り急ぎ、各賞の候補作品をご紹介します。14の賞にそれぞれ6つの候補作品がありますので、ちょっと下まで長いですが、ご辛抱ください。

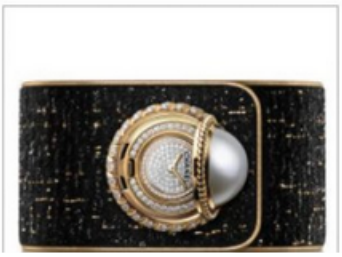

割と、WMOで独自にあるいは最初に取り上げたブランドやモデルが多いな、と手前みそですが、思いました。もちろん、全くカバーしていないブランドもありますがそれは仕方がありません。

では、参ります。

「ジュネーブ・ウォッチメイキング・グランプリ（GPHG）」はいかにして時計業界の黄金律になったのか？

2001年に創設された「ジュネーブ・ウォッチメイキング・グランプリ（Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève＝GPHG）」は今や、業界で最も重要なアワードとしての地位を確立した。ここではGPHGがどのようにして始まったのかはもちろん、ブランド間の競争をいかにして促進し、さらにはこの20年間でイベントがどれほど進化したのかを振り返ってみたい。

GPHGは「最も注目に値する現代の作品を讃え、世界中の時計製造技術を宣伝する」目的で2001年に創設。メンバーにはジュネーブ州、ジュネーブ市、ラ・ショー・ド・フォンにある国際時計博物館（MIH）、ジュネーブ時計・マイクロエンジニアリング研究所（タイムラボ）、そして複合企業グループのエディプレッスが名を連ねている。2019年まで時計ブランドは14のカテゴリーに対し、最も有望なモデルを（比較的少額の）参加費用を払ってエントリー。最終選考に残った時計は追加費用を支払うことで、その後、世界を巡回するエキシビションに参加することができた。GPHGのディレクターであるカリンヌ・マイヤーは次のように述べている。

「GPHGはショウケースメディアであり、また優れたプロモーションツールです。事前に選ばれた時計が、毎年秋なると世界を巡回する特別なエキシビションで展示されるのです。受賞した時計は国際的なメディアによって十分に露出されます。そのため、すべてのブランドが参加できるよう、参加費用は極力抑えるようにしています」

불가리의 알루미늄 크로노그래프 워치가 지난 11월 12일, 시계 업계의 '오스카'로 불리는 제네바 시계 그랑프리(이하 GPHG)의 아이코닉 워치 부문에서 수상했다. 불가리는 이로써 지난 6년간의 GPHG에서 옥토 피니씨모 및 다양한 주얼리 워치를 포함해 총 여섯 개의 수상작을 보유하게 되었다.

그동안 불가리는 럭셔리를 재해석하는 독자적인 노하우와 특유의 우아하고 과감한 미학으로 미래지향적인 행보를 이어나갔다. 이를 증명할 수 있는 것이 바로 불가리 알루미늄인데, 1998년에 출시한 1세대 불가리 알루미늄 워치는 당시 고급 시계 브랜드에서 일반적으로 사용하지 않는 알루미늄과 러버 소재의 결합을 통해 새로운 반향을 일으켰다.

Introducing the MB&F HM4 Kittyhawk Pièce Unique

November 24, 2020 · By Felix Scholz

Share to:

Many things make MB&F special — but one of the most distinctive elements of the mavrick brand's charm is their ability to shift aesthetics, seemingly on a dime. From bio-organic forms to mid-century sci-fi, MB&F manages to integrate seemingly disparate nostalgic pop-culture tropes into their very serious horology, all while floating past the pitfalls of cartoony pastiche.

But one trend manifests itself more than most across their various collections, and that's retrofuturism. The idea, born in literature and the creative arts, speaks to concepts of the future realized using antiquated technology. The style is both nostalgic for an imagined past, and skeptical of populist imaginings of the future.

Retrofuturism is a field in which MB&F has played since the very beginning, in both their Horological Machines and the Legacy Machines. One of their most striking expression though, is the HM4, a typically MB&F take on a pilot's watch, that first took flight a decade ago.

Also called the Thunderbolt, this watch defies traditional case descriptions and instead relies on language cribbed from the world of aviation. Two turbine-like engines sit upon a central chassis, each with a display: power reserve on the left, and time on the right. The whole assembly of this 2010 GPHG-winning watch 不能錯過的BVLGARI寶格麗 Aluminium腕錶! 吳亦凡、吳思賢、陳立農、范少勳.....根本早就偷偷戴上了!

誕生於1998年的BVLGARI寶格麗 Aluminium腕錶，今年底重回鎂光燈下，年度新款才一推出就受到90年後男星吳逸凡、吳思賢、陳立農、范少勳.....等的偷偷熱愛，官方istagram上根本就將他們與BVLGARI寶格麗 Aluminium腕錶的帥氣合照秀好秀滿。看來BVLGARI Aluminium腕錶即將熱火的大勢已經首見端倪。

BVLGARI寶格麗 Aluminium腕錶狠甩它款腕錶的一大重量級特色即是，它罕見地採用了「鋁」作為錶殼及橡膠錶帶的組裝鍊節，並於錶框上裝飾了BVLGARI BVLGARI系列腕錶的經典重覆LOGO飾紋。使用了鋁材質不光是大幅減輕了腕錶的重量，鋁的反光特性及質樸質地，令這挾著運動腕錶精神而生的 Aluminium，多了點雅痞與不羈。

Ajinkya Nair • November 20, 2020

The 2020 edition of Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève ended last week, and as is the custom, the focus lay on innovation, creativity and the high art of watchmaking. Despite the many challenges that this year brought forth, the show went on, albeit in digital garb. Often referred to as the 'Oscars of watchmaking', the GPHGs are a big deal for manufacturers and the horological audience alike. And this year, the nominations came from the GPHG Academy—an international clique of 350 key players from the main sectors of the international watch industry—created at the start of 2020. The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG), a foundation set up by the city of Geneva in association with some of the world's best-known watch brands, will hold its annual awards ceremony, known as the Oscar ceremony for watches, at a gala event at Geneva's Museum of Art and History this month. The most prestigious international horology awards show will hand out nearly 20 prizes. The six nominees in each of the 14 categories were selected by votes cast by the 350 members of the GPHG Academy, from hundreds of entries. A smaller group of 30 members will select the final winners. Here are some of the nominees in the key categories.

Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) Awards

By Ishan Raghava - November 27, 2020

The Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) awards are among the most sought after design awards in the world of haute horology. With the contenders for the 2020 awards shortlisted, we pick five o....

1. IWC Portugeiser Collection

The Portugeiser collection, one of IWC's most popular watch lines since 1930, has received significant updates – both in regards to its mechanicals, as well as its styling. The classic Portugeiser Chronograph nominated this year is one of my current favourite watches for a variety of reasons. Firstly, I love the clean design of the latest version of the chrono. With the dial featuring two sub-dials, paired with Arabic numerals, the design is free of any extra addenda and looks just right. I'm also quite partial to the steel version, which is simply gorgeous. And, with the introduction of an in-house movement – the 69355 caliber – the Portugeiser Chronograph is one of the hottest 'affordable' watches on the market right now.

GPHG 2020 – 5 disruptive nominees that should be winners in a chaotic and disrupted year

As the inaugural peak of Haute Horlogerie appreciation is upon us, a renewed GPHG convenes. This time with an expanded panel of judges, a semi-online voting process, and, refreshingly, with a truly broad range of nominees. There is a sense that perhaps disruption is the plat du jour.

So, let the GPHG roll on with the words of Bulgari CEO Jean-Christophe Babin fresh in our minds: "It's time now for revenge, it's time for coming back, it's time for reassuring watch lovers that the industry is back, that the watch industry will excite them, that the watch industry has never been so creative and relevant."

We think this very sentiment is clear in what we see as five top nominees symbolising the faces of watchmaking in 2020, set to shake up the system, from niche microbrands to tough tool watches, and extreme examples of handmade craftsmanship.

Category: Iconic – The Seiko Prospex SLA042 "Tuna"

In the exalted company of Haute Horlogerie from Piaget, IWC Schaffhausen and Girard-Perregaux there is a cat amongst the pigeons, or should that be a Tuna amongst the sharks? The 1000m Seiko Professional diver ref. SLA042, better known as the Tuna, is nothing but an icon, and in this 1000m guise it is an indestructible force. That's why it is infinitely refreshing to see it nominated here, with the bulletproof 8L35 movement bereft of engraved balance bridge, swan-neck adjustment or perlage.

FRIDAY WIND DOWN: A Seiko you can buy for a good cause, a Longines Tuxedo, and our GPHG winners wish list

It's a dark, rainy afternoon in Melbourne with temperatures plunged back below 10 degrees. But it's always sunny when you can write the Wind Down from the office with colleagues around — 1.5m away, of course, but at least around! Today is my first day back in the office for what I would guess to be four months, and it feels good. And as far as the recap for the week goes, it's been another bustling one.

Early in the week, we had the news that Seiko would donate all proceeds from the cute, but properly value-packed Porco Rosso chronograph to the Black Dog Institute of Australia. If you are interested in doing something great for the world, and acquiring an enamel-dialled chronograph par excellence in the process, please contact sales@timeandtidewatches.com with your name and location. For further inspiration, just look at the way the light bends and pools over the inky enamel dial. Swoon ...

GRAND PRIX D'HORLOGERIE DE GENÈVE (GPHG) 2020 PRIZE WINNERS ANNOUNCED

written by Hours And Minutes Australia

The 2020 prize list of the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG) was unveiled on Thursday November 12 at the 20th GPHG awards ceremony, a poetic digital show masterfully hosted by actor Edouard Baer. Below are the winners from this year's edition:

FRIDAY WIND DOWN: The GPHG winners were what?! 007 is confirmed to be a woman, and we look at some pretty Hublot pastels

It's certainly time for a Friday afternoon beer, and for no more reason than the eyebrow-raising results that came out of the GPHG overnight. The GPHG is, of course, the Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève or, as is endlessly repeated, "the Oscars of watchmaking". The ceremony was held yesterday, with a couple of awards that caused Zach to almost ruin his laptop by spitting his drink out when certain watches were announced as the winners. Not that they weren't excellent watches in their own right, but were they the best in their category in 2020? We'll leave that one up to you to decide.

There were a couple of watches that were certainly deserving winners, including the Greubel Forsey Hand Made 1, the Vacheron Constantin Overseas Perpetual Calendar ultra-thin skeleton, the H. Moser & Cie. Streamliner Flyback Chronograph Automatic and several others. My favourite of the lot, after having the privilege of holding the watch on two occasions, would have to be the Hand Made 1 by Greubel Forsey. It is 95 per cent made by hand, and took more than 6000 hours to complete, a feat that is hard to wrap your head around in the age of ubiquitous CNC machining. I also particularly like that it won the Men's Complication prize, despite being a time-only watch. It just goes to show there is still appreciation for the more traditional aspects of watchmaking, and acknowledge that such a level of execution is a complication in and of itself.

Have a great weekend,

Nick

"I spat out my drink" – Zach's honest reactions to 3 GPHG 2020 winners that make no sense

As with any awards show, there can be a discrepancy between which watches fans think should have won and the watches that actually win. And it has to be said that the divide between popular and GPHG opinion is something of a canyon these days, with mega-brands like Rolex and Patek Philippe curiously not making any kind of showing. If this is indeed the "Oscars" for watchmaking, aren't we rolling without Spielberg? Or, in the modern day, saying no to Nolan? This is a subject deserving of a post of its own, because, of course, "it's complicated".

How so? It's like, they need to be invited to the dance if they haven't bought tickets to the dance, but Rolex and Patek don't wanna dance, so they politely decline to go to the dance, etc etc etc. We can leave this as a topic for another day. But, to wit, some of the winners in 2020 struck me as eyebrow-raising, and some straight-out dubious – this is increasingly an age of transparency and it would be fair to say that the GPHG remains cloaked in more than a reasonable amount of secrecy. Here are three winners that had me running a gamut of emotions, from outright puzzled, to, honestly, pissed and feeling for the more deserving winner.

We watched every minute of the GPHG 2020 so you don't have to. And you owe us a beer, it wasn't amazing...

The 20th annual GPHG was streamed and broadcast live, with digital spectators tuning in around the world to see who would win what some refer to as "the Oscars" of watchmaking. Each year, an academy of industry experts, journalists and influencers is assembled to determine the nominees for these prestigious awards – with 30 of these members ultimately selected to serve as the final jury. This year, unfortunate circumstances minimised the physical in-person presence at the GPHG (Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève). Nonetheless, the show was upbeat and filled with that good ol' Swiss humour and an abundance of cheese-related puns and references. They were a bit CHEESY if I may say so myself. I'll see myself out ...

Here are the best watches of the year: should you care?

The watch industry's biggest awards ceremony has been run and won, but does it really represent the best of the best?

By Felix Scholz, November 20 2020

Every industry has its milestone award: a glitzy gala "night of nights" event of red carpets and celebrities, movers and shakers, trophies and speeches.

For the watch industry, this is the annual Grand Prix d'Horlogerie de Genève (GPHG). It is, as they say, The Oscars of Watchmaking.

Any watch brand can submit any commercially available watch (up to seven, in fact) for consideration into any of the 14 categories (best men's watch, best jewellery watch and so on).

Then there's a convoluted voting process involving shortlists, an academy and a jury which eventually turns into a list of winning watches that are awarded a tiny golden hand statue, along with the prestige that goes along with the being acclaimed by your peers.
